A TIME TO REMEMBER AT KELOWNA CENOTAPH

Pedro R. S. Letic, Legion chaplain, intone the prayer for servicemen, the Queen and those in power in our country at the Memorial Day ceremony in Kelowna city park Thursday. Members of the Kelowna RCMP detachment, stood at ease during the prayer at the cenotaph. Flags were slowly lowered as the last post sounded through the park. There followed two minutes of silence, broken only by the wail of falling Autumn leaves, and then the first notes of the Revue and flags were raised.

Following the ceremony in the park the parade went past the Kelowna Fire Hall where firemen stood on guard at the granite memorial. At the memorial across Harold Wharf, Legion president, placed a wreath, and Mr. Letic, re-dedicated the building.

The Crime, Treason, The Penalty, Death

LONDON (CP) — The British government warned Prime Minister Ian Smith and his Rhodesian regime today their defiance of British authority is treason. The penalty is death.

Attorney-General Sir Elwyn Jones issued the warning in the Commons as the government sought emergency powers to restore Britain's authority over the breakaway, white-run colony in central Africa.

Jones warned Britons inside and outside Rhodesia that actions furthering the aims of Smith's would be treasonable. The bill giving the British government massive powers of retaliation against Rhodesia sped toward adoption in the House.

Now We're Launched Says Smith Waving Champagne Bottle Aloft

SALISBURY (CP) — The Rhodesian cabinet, dismissed Thursday by Queen Elizabeth, met in a jovial mood today and its chief, Ian Smith, waved a bottle of champagne declaring "now we are launched."

White Rhodesians showed no more than quiet happiness on one hand, or quiet foreboding on the other, after the long-expectated break. But so far they did not know of the economic sanctions which were imposed by Britain almost immediately after the break.

At Prime Minister Smith waved the champagne, draped in the purple and white colors of his Rhodesian Front party, British High Commissioner John B. Johnston boarded a plane for London in symbol of the break between Britain and the colony which declared itself independent without British permission.

Observers said the very fact of a cabinet meeting indicated Smith and his 11 ministers, all officially fired by the Queen, intended to ignore the British-appointed governor's dismissal order.

Government sources said the governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, had left the capital and gone back to his cattle ranch near Bulawayo.

A government spokesman said the cabinet meeting was just a continuation of the long series held during the last month of abortive independence negotiations.

Smith waved telegrams to reporters and declared: "See what I've got."

At the airport, Johnston told reporters: "This is the end of a chapter, but it is not the end of the story. The first of a number of foreign envoys expected to leave within the next few days, he said it was 'a very sad day.'"

Most of the rest of his 20-man staff and their families were expected to follow soon, leaving only "caretaker" representation.

Canadian Trade Commissioner Ian R. Smyth said he had been recalled and would leave for home within a few days.

British Told The United Nations Security Council today it has ruled out use of military force to punish Rhodesia for declaring its independence. Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, above, said British measures against seizure of power by the white-minority Rhodesian government are to succeed they must have the good will of the entire international community. "We do not believe that the use of military force can solve these problems. I invite those who ask for military force to look around the world today and see how many places violence and armed conflict rage."

There is abundant authority for the conclusion that conduct of the kind that has taken place is treasonable.

Wheel Fails And 40 Die

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A United Air Lines Boeing 727 jet airliner burst into flames on landing Thursday night at Salt Lake City Airport.

The airline said the jet carried 80 persons, and that 40 of them were "killed or presumed killed."

There were 14 who escaped injuries or had been treated or released from hospitals and 36, including the crew of six members, under treatment in hospitals.

There were no Canadian listed among the plane's survivors.

A list of the dead or unaccounted for, provided by the airline, gave only about half the hometowns. There were no Canadians among the dead with listed hometowns.

It was the third 727 involved in an airline accident since August—and the second this week.

The 12-man, tri-jet airliner approached the airport from the south for an on-schedule landing.

A United spokesman in Chicago blamed the accident on nose wheel failure.

"We had a hard bump started swerving from side to side," said passenger Ralph S. Nesbitt, a Santa Monica, Calif., salesman. "And flames broke out from the rear."

"People were thrown all over the place. It was horrible. The heat was terrible."

Nesbitt said he dove to safety through an open window, on to a wing and through a sheet of flames to the ground.

The interior of the plane blackened into charcoal. The Deputy Salt Lake County attorney, Warren M. Wegge, said only the arms and legs of victims were distinguishable in the debris.

The plane was piloted by Capt. Gail C. Keimier, 48, of Denver. The captain and his crew survived.

The C.A.B. said in Washington 12 investigations were en route to the crash. A Washington spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency said it had no plans for grounding 727 jets.

Swidler indicated he had some doubts as to whether he would have a preliminary report to President Johnson ready by this weekend as he first had hoped.

After meeting for 14 hours Thursday, Swidler said the problem still was one of finding where the failure occurred.

"The breakdown is not traceable to any unit. The systems went back into service with the same equipment. The problem of tracing is a complex one."

The power commission, a panel of government power experts and officials of the private power companies affected and several others are taking part in the discussions aimed at preventing any similar power failure in the future.

Officials, Power Experts Study Cause Of Big U.S. Blackout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government and industry power experts study today the pattern of Tuesday night's massive blackout in which a power failure surged through city after city in the northeastern United States and in the Ottawa and Toronto areas.

Chairman Joseph C. Swidler of the Federal Power Commission, who heads the investigation, said the panel wants to find out "how the cascading process worked" and also what "reverse action" was taken to restore service.

The blackout at its peak enveloped 80,000 square miles in an eight state area and affected 10,000,000 persons.

Swidler indicated he had some doubts as to whether he would have a preliminary report to President Johnson ready by this weekend as he first had hoped.

Marcos Appears To Be Winner In Philippine Presidency Vote

MANILA (AP) — Senate President Ferdinand E. Marcos appeared today to have almost won the Philippine presidency vote, but President Diosdado Macapagal, seeking a second term, refused to concede.

Unofficial returns compiled by the Philippine news service gave Marcos 814,000 votes to lead Tuesday's election, still an almost unbreakable margin although smaller than it was earlier.

The unofficial tally from about 70 per cent of the estimated 8,500,000 votes gave Marcos 3,015,271 votes to Macapagal's 2,401,176.

By 340,277 votes. The official tally from 28,110 voting districts was Marcos 2,280,308, Macapagal 1,550,028.

CONFIDENT HE WILL WIN

Marcos, a 45-year-old war hero from Iloilo, considered himself confident of victory.

He said he could lose only through "massive and unthinkable fraud."

But Macapagal, 55, considers the election still undecided and won't concede until official returns are completed, a source close to the Liberal party president said.

The president's press office said returns from pre-Macapagal provinces of the islands of Luzon and Mindanao will put him ahead in the official tally. Early returns from Mindanao showed Marcos running strongly in urban areas. Macapagal claims strength in the countryside.

OTHER ACTIONS TAKEN

Jones noted that other action by Britain—such as the ban on import of Rhodesian tobacco and sugar—had already been carried out under existing statutory powers.

Jones said the illegal regime pretended to give to the people of Rhodesia a new constitution—a move which he described as "a grave aspect of this rebellion."

"We have not yet seen this document, but it would seem clear that one of its objects is evidently to usurp the authority of the United Kingdom government and the sovereignty of Parliament."

Liberals Stronger Asserts Gordon In Stepping Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Walter Gordon, who resigned Thursday as finance minister, said today the Liberal minority government now is in a stronger position than it was before the Nov. 8 general election and that it will carry on his economic policies.

Election Advice Maybe Bad 'But Would Give It Over Again'

Mr. Gordon said there would be "great resentment against anyone who challenged Mr. Pearson's carrying on for many years to come."

He said the prime minister has unanimous support in the party, then added: "Oh, there may be one or two somewhere across the country..."

Trawler Sinking Probed

VICTORIA (CP) — Two investigations were to be conducted today into the sinking of a Canadian trawler with the loss of one man Wednesday.

Russian and Canadian ships were to meet in Queen Charlotte Sound off the northern tip of Vancouver Island to discuss the collision between a Russian vessel and the trawler, Aleutian Queen.

Cook Oud Grondlund, 49, of North Surrey, B.C., was drowned when a liferaft overturned.

Meanwhile the department of transport was to hold a preliminary inquiry here.

Capt. Cyril Burrill, supervising examiner for masters and mates, said he will interview Capt. Oles Hansen, 55, skipper of the Aleutian Queen, and his son Robert. His report would go to Transport Minister Fickert.

It will be up to the minister to decide if a formal inquiry will be made.

It still was not clear which of two Russian vessels was in collision with the Aleutian Queen.

Sharp Seen As Odds On Choice By Pearson For Gordon's Job

OTTAWA (CP) — Mitchell Sharp ranks as the odds-on favorite to succeed to the finance portfolio vacated Thursday night by the resignation of Walter Gordon.

The 54-year-old trade minister stands high with close political colleagues to take on the most sensitive post in the cabinet.

Moreover, associates feel he has the confidence of the Canadian business community, an asset they look on as vital for the man who guides the country's fiscal and monetary policies.

Initial speculation as to the man Prime Minister Pearson might call on to fill the vacancy naturally ranged far beyond one man.

One suggestion was that the resignation might provide the opening needed for Robert Winters, the engineer who came to political life Monday with a victory in York West.

Since his defeat in 1957 when he was minister of public works, the 55-year-old Nova Scotian has carved out a successful career in business at Toronto.

However, well-informed sources were inclined to put their money on Mr. Sharp, contending that his long career as high-ranking civil servant and businessman, followed by 24 years as trade minister, provide the background for the challenging finance post. They suggest trade might be the portfolio for Mr. Winters.

Conotaph Vigil For Pacifists

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty pacifists staged a quiet 10-minute Remembrance Day vigil at the cenotaph in front of the old city hall Thursday.

Organized by the Toronto Peace Centre, the group, shivering in the cold, carried signs denouncing war.

One of the pacifists, Rev. Donald Heap, spoke to the group about young Americans who recently burned themselves to death in protest over U.S. action in the Viet Nam War.

"Is it not far nobler to burn oneself than to burn and kill thousands of innocent people?" he asked.

Mr. Sharp took on the challenging finance portfolio it will be in keeping with his whole career. He's been accomplishing hard things most of his life, starting at 14 when he went to work to help support his family in his native Winnipeg.

He left school to go to work, but completed his high school and his University of Manitoba graduation mostly by night school classes and correspondence courses. Then he went on to post-graduate studies, including a year at the London School of Economics.

In 1942, he came to Ottawa and joined the civil service in the finance department where he spent nine years, first as an assistant to the deputy minister and later as director of the economic policy division.

In 1951, he switched to the trade department as associate deputy minister, leaving government service in 1956 to become a vice-president of Canadian Traction Light and Power Co., an international utilities firm with its head office in Toronto.

In 1962 he plunged actively into politics, running against Mr. Fleming in Edmonton in the June 18 election. He lost by 769 votes. Mr. Fleming didn't contest the 1963 election and Mr. Sharp won by a wide margin. He was re-elected Monday.

Police Say Trial Not Likely For Boston Strangler Crimes

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston strangle may never come to trial.

Most police officials now agree there may never be a guilty verdict or explanation of 11 stranglings of women in the greater Boston area.

Attorney-General Edward W. Brooke's office, a prime suspect has been placed in an institution, that he is believed mentally incompetent to stand trial and that there is no indication now that he can ever be indicted.

The string of macabre slayings began June 14, 1962, with the death of Mrs. Anna E. Sieners, 55, a seamstress strangled in her Boston apartment.

Most of the deaths that followed were of women in their late 50s, 60s, and 70s. A cord, bra, nylon stocking or pillow slip was wrapped tightly around their necks. Most of the victims lived alone in apartments.

The strangler was thought to have gained entrance on some such pretext as being a delivery or repairman.

She Found $5,000 But Luck Was Out

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Frances Troiano unwrapped about $5,000 in new $5 bills when she opened a newspaper-covered bundle she found outside her apartment building. She noticed that all the bills had the same serial number. Police confirmed they were counterfeit.

The most recent in the series was the strangling of Miss Mary Ellen Sullivan Jan. 4, 1964, in her apartment in Boston's exclusive Back Bay.

New Music Group May Be Formed On Saturday

A new musical organization may be formed in Kelowna Saturday.

"Jeunesses Musicales" is an organization started in Belgium 25 years ago to assist young musicians. It has been operating in eastern Canada for years, but the only branches in B.C. are at Trail and at UBC.

"Under the sponsorship of the Kelowna secondary music association two artists will visit Kelowna Saturday," said Garfield McKinley, music director for School District No. 23. "They will give a concert in the secondary school music room and then their tour conductor, J. Johansen from Vancouver will explain the possibility of setting up a branch here."

The organization begins with musicians of promise and assists them as far as their early professional appearances.

In 1957 a contest will be sponsored in each of voice, piano and strings and the three winners will each receive $12,000 as well as a cross Canada tour.

"Jeunesses Musicales" receives a $100,000 grant from Canada Council each year," said Mr. McKinley, "and the rest of their finances comes mostly from donations."

FROM FRANCE

The two musicians visiting here are Christian Larde, flutist, and his wife Marie-Claire Jamet, harpist. They are both direct from France and are said to be the tops in their field.

Mr. Larde has given more than 1,000 concerts and his wife is also a recording star in France.

They will give a 45 minute concert, starting at 2:30 p.m. Mr. Johansen will outline the make up of the organization. Mr. Johansen was one of the original beneficiaries of the group when he was a youth of 12 in Belgium.

"We hope those in Kelowna and district who are interested in good music and those interested in furthering music education in the district will be there Saturday afternoon," said Mr. McKinley.

Men Hospitalized Wednesday As Accident Damage Hits $5,600

Two men were taken to the Kelowna General Hospital Wednesday at 9:45 p.m., following a three car collision on Highway 97 near Campbell Road, Westbank.

Driver Michael Melnick, Pentiction, was found unconscious at the scene police said. Hospital authorities said today he had a "fair night." George La Strada, 714 Patterson Ave. was treated and released.

The third driver was Leonard David Schellenberg, 215 King St. Damage is estimated at $5,600.

Bruce Rooney, Westbank, told police at 6:30 a.m., today, a truck he parked rolled away unattended and collided with a house in a lane off Highway 97, Westbank, resulting in damage estimated at $100. There were no injuries.

Police are looking for a hit and run driver who collided with a traffic island on Highway 97 near Burnsville Road at 8:45 p.m. Thursday. A speed sign was broken and asphalt was reported.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

With BETHEL STEELE

This week's Art Exhibit Society's films and panel discussion as part of the series . . . "Explorations in Art" courtesy the National Film Board . . . was concerned with "Art as History."

Even though the time had been changed from the usual Thursday to Wednesday and the place from the central secondary band room to the auditorium, there were still the usual 80 to 90 people present with many new faces in evidence.

The evening proved to be one of the most stimulating in the series to date. The panel, made up of Mrs. Gwen Lamont, Jack Hambleton, Leroy Jensen and National Film Board representative, Douglas Eliuk, in the opening talks, was concise and relevant in each case with the exception of Mr. Hambleton who contravened the point of the subject by speaking not on "Art in History," but on the history of art.

Moderator Al Jensen said even though there were those in the audience who did not care for the moderator or in some cases the panelists, he hoped that the audience would continue to be made up of those who like "myself" have come to find out about art.

The two films . . . "The Age of the Buffalo" and the "Expressionist Revolt" . . . showed how painting as in the first can give an historical picture of an epoch which in this case was the destruction of the buffalo by the white man on the plains of North America as civilization moved westward and how this destruction deprived the Indian of his livelihood and became the cause for the Indian wars of the 19th century, and the second, by reproducing the work of the German Expressionists who escaped the Nazi terror and ideological control of the painters' aims and desire to experiment, shows that painting can be a political mirror of the times in which it is executed.

Mrs. Lamont said art reflected its period subconsciously and that as we look back at each period something significant comes out of it . . . that as artists we are in a period of exploration . . . in new materials, and in the subconscious . . . as the traditionalist and the pop artists as well as the abstract and the abstract painter . . . while on the other hand there is the painter Andrew Wyeth who explores deeply the realms of mysticism in what appears to be a form of realism."

Leroy Jensen . . . "Art as history or art as expression produces reaction . . . at times that of a bluntness which produces irritation in those who experience this condition in themselves . . . or a reaction of obscurity as the painting shows little attempt to extend the horizon . . . current in all art movements down through the ages is the desire to destroy works of art because someone did not like them."

Mr. Eliuk was emphatic in that he was in agreement with Mrs. Lamont in her statement that . . . "painters reflect their times on their own terms." He continued . . . that in the changing art world brought on by the Nazi revolution was a true example of art influenced by its own time . . . and that Russian art today is political and therefore a record of incidents in history with little freedom of thought.

Because the question proved so controversial in regard to good and bad art in relation to its historical value Mr. Eliuk's summing-up was far more important than might others who be the case.

"One cannot judge if there are not opposites . . . good and bad art as a visual mirror of our times is of the utmost historical value, and there is in all great painting something intangible which will last through the years."

From the standpoint of a true artistic perspective in our community the showing of these films throughout the series to the students at Rutland secondary and an immaculate high school seems to be the logical outcome if we are to achieve the true ideal . . . that of helping to make our children "aware" of the beauty in the world with a better understanding-no-matter-how-small-it-might-be-of-the creative act and its relationship to whatever spiritual force they believe in.

Questions not relative to the subject were accepted from the floor most important of which was the mental status of some great artists such as Van Gogh and the use of drugs and liquor by artists as mental stimulus.

The question of patronage was followed through to Mr. Hambleton's statement that it was an historical fact that in the past the arts depended on the wealthy patron rather than on museums or galleries.

ABC AUDITOR VERNON JOHNSON AT WORK

Daily Courier's Circulation Verified by Annual Audit

A man who says he gets to visit his home only once a year is working diligently in the circulation department of the Daily Courier at the present time, determining the circulation of the newspaper.

His name is Vernon Johnson, and the story he has to tell is one of continual travel.

Mr. Johnson, when attempting to name the place he would call "home," said it would be Des Moines, Iowa, although he gets to visit there only one or two weeks of the entire year.

He is employed by the Audit Bureau of Circulation, Co. of Chicago, Illinois, as a field auditor and travels among approximately 2,800 papers in Canada and the United States.

The purpose of the bureau, a non-profit organization, is to determine the circulation of newspapers which have membership in the bureau, in order that advertising companies and other firms may determine the best papers in which to advertise.

"When we verify the circulation of a paper," he said, "it is put on record. Advertising agencies use this figure in planning their campaigns for given areas."

"The bureau operates mainly in Canada and the U.S., but is associated with many similar establishments around the world."

Mr. Johnson has been with the bureau for slightly more than one year, and since April 1, 1953, has audited more than 60 newspapers, and travelled more than 18,000 miles.

"I travel approximately 25,000-30,000 miles a year, and work at more than 100 newspapers, but this is not true for all auditors working for the bureau."

"I am not married, and this is why I have been given a travelling job. If a man is married, and has children living at home, he would most likely be given assignments in his own area, never being more than 200-250 miles from home."

"However, many married men, who have no children or whose children are grown up, travel about the continent in mobile homes, never calling any particular place home."

"I drive a car everywhere I go, and work on papers with circulation as high as 500,000 daily, (900,000 on Sundays), and on some as small as 780 circulation weekly."

"On the larger papers, it can take me up to six weeks to determine their circulation, while on the smallest ones, I can have it done in five hours."

The field auditor said he likes his job very much.

"I joined the bureau because I like to travel," he said, "and believe me, on this job you get all the travelling you want. The pay is not especially high, although they provide you with a comfortable salary, but each day is different. Many times you will be the next day, and I suggest this occupation highly for people with an adventurous spirit."

From Kelowna, Mr. Johnson will go to the Pentiction Herald; the Princeton Similkameen Spotlight; the Oliver Chronicle; the Osoyoos Times; and the Rossland Miner, to mention only a few, and from there, will resume his endless journey about the continent.

City University Women's Club Brings "Mary, Mary" Saturday

A comedy on modern marriage, "Mary, Mary" will be presented in the community theatre Saturday at 8 p.m., sponsored by the Kelowna University Women's Club.

The production is one by the Vernon Little theatre and is the beginning of what could be a cultural exchange between the two centres. Mrs. Harold Lamoureux, chairman, said today.

Pam Allen portrays the part of "Mary," the wife of Dennis Leary, a publisher. The plot is of a modern-day marriage about to founder on the rocks of Mary's unrelenting sense of humor.

Several Kelowna people have seen the play and termed it "witty, gay, entertaining."

It is full of laughs as the dialogue is filled with "digs" at the relationship between men and women in marriage. There are comments on all the little rubs, such as leaving the lid off the tooth paste tube.

The author is Jean Kerr, who wrote "Please Don't Eat The Daisies."

Mrs. R. C. Dillabough, president of the University Women's club, said a share of the profits from Saturday's performance will go to her club.

"The Vernon Little Theatre group won the B.C. Dominion drama festival award last year, and their performance here should be well worth seeing," she said.

Members of Beta Sigma Phi will usher. Tickets are on sale at Dyck's Drugs.

Valley Pollution Committee To Make Report In December

Ald. L. A. N. Potterton said today a complete technical report on testing carried out on the Okanagan watershed, will be published in December.

Ald. Potterton is chairman of the valley pollution control committee set up in July, 1955, to study pollution in the Okanagan Valley watershed.

A subcommittee under chairman F. E. Atkinson, Summerland, has been carrying out valley watershed tests at the experimental farm.

"We will call a meeting of the valley pollution committee Dec. 8 in Summerland, and hear a complete report from the technical committee," Mr. Potterton said.

The Valley committee is made up of mayors and Reeves from towns and villages.

A meeting of the technical committee was held in Kelowna Wednesday and Dr. D. R. MacGregor of the experimental farm, was appointed to replace Mr. Atkinson. Mr. Atkinson said he had to retire due to the pressure of business and his new duties with the area industrial committee.

The technical committee will meet again in a week, but Ald. Potterton said nothing will be made public until the December meeting.

Tax Collections At $1,728,838

D. H. Herbert, city comptroller, said in his report to city council Monday, a total of $1,728,838 has been collected in municipal taxes to Oct. 31.

The total represents 99.043 per cent of the total levy of $1,745,591.

On the same date in 1954 a total of $1,494,770 or 89.200 per cent had been collected. The tax deadline was Oct. 21, but the tax year ends Dec. 31.

A total of 2,970 trade licences were issued for a value of $66,462 up $10,476 over the same period last year, when 2,006 were issued.

Municipal commercial vehicle licence fees totalled $21,468, an increase of $3,172.

Bicycle licence fees were up $127, to $5,315.

A total of 677 licences have been issued for male dogs, amounting to $3,510 an increase of 30 tags and $75 in taxes. Forty-five licences were issued for female dogs with $455 collected in taxes, up 10 tags and $100, from the same period last year.

"Gift Apples" Go Over Well

B.C. Tree fruits have announced a tremendous response to their "Gift Apples" idea of gift boxes of apples.

The apples are wrapped in single tier standard Christmas gift packages and purchased by people in the Okanagan for relatives in the U.K., western Canada, eastern Canada, and the United States.

On Oct. 27, 8,999 boxes of apples left for the U.K. alone.

B.C. Tree Fruits have now found it possible to guarantee delivery of any packages whose orders have been placed before Dec. 1.

Safeway Re-Opens After Explosions Early Wednesday

Safeway, at the corner of Richter and Bernard, re-opened for business as usual at 9 a.m. today, with little evidence remaining of the two shattering blasts that ripped the store on Wednesday at 8:30 a.m.

A. W. Ockwell, retail operations manager of Safeway for the Vancouver area paid tribute to the hard work of the 70 men who reconstructed the store over the two days it was closed.

REPLACED STOCK

"Twenty of these men were clerks who replaced all the stock on the shelves with new fresh produce," he said. "They and the technicians who replaced the front glass wall and bricked up the rear of the store, all worked almost ceaselessly."

"It is impossible to give a more accurate estimate of the damage than the $40,000 estimated by Tom Millburn Wednesday. That figure will have to come from the insurance adjusters."

INJURED

Five men were injured by the second explosion and taken to Kelowna general hospital.

treated for burns and released. Brian Tully, another fireman was released Thursday. James Batten, an employee of the store, Coast A. K. Westwood, RCMP, and store manager Walter Payne are still in hospital.

A hospital spokesman said today all were progressing satisfactorily.

"We will have to wait for the doctor's report on when Mr. Payne will be able to return to his job," said Mr. Ockwell.

Henry Remple, from our store in Prince George will be acting manager in the interim with Bob Kozar, the store's assistant manager, taking an active part."

NO REPORT

"We sent pieces of the furnace away Wednesday to see if we could find out how the explosion occurred," said William Conn, gas inspector in Kelowna.

Kelowna Fire Chief Charles Pettman, said at noon today papers were being checked at the National Research Council in Vancouver and no report had been received.

Jehovah's Witnesses Meet For Convention In Kelowna

Entire family delegations will be staying in town this weekend for the convention of Jehovah's Witnesses at the senior secondary school on Harvey Avenue.

Instruction will be provided in the application of Bible principles to the lives of individuals as well as more effective methods in sharing the Bible's message of good news with others.

"Ours is a ministry work," said the convention's principle speaker, R. W. Arnett, "one that keeps all of Jehovah's Witnesses very busy. And the practice of Bible principles keeps them uniquely united around the world in 194 different lands. This is in stark contrast to the general world-wide conflicts."

PRINCIPLES

"Today, most of the many seemingly unsolvable problems could be eliminated by the application of such time scriptural principles as peace, kindness and love."

"It is because of this, that Jehovah's Witnesses meet together in assemblies such as this one in Kelowna. They want to become as effective as they possibly can in order to meet the urgent need of going about their happy task of providing free Bible instruction in the homes of their neighbors, assuring them that God's promises are still valid and that He is still interested in the future of mankind."

SCHOOL

One of the features of tonight's first session will be a model ministry school.

"This 'school,'" said Mr. Arnett, "is the same as that held regularly every week in the local congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses."

Mrs. Anderson is survived by her husband Jacob and four daughters, Mrs. Billy Lewin of Calgary, Alberta, Mrs. George Irwin of New Westminster, B.C., and Mrs. William Skelton of New Westminster.

Mrs. Anderson is also survived by four brothers in Alberta, George, Charles, Earl and John Gillespie and 14 grandchildren.

Rev. Dr. E. H. Birdsell officiated and burial was in the Kelowna cemetery.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the funeral home of Rodney King, Bernard and Albert Porco, Dr. William Ferguson and Reginald Marlatt.

Day's Funeral Service was in charge of arrangements.

R. W. ARNETT

Jehovah's Witnesses and provides free instruction in the art of public speaking. Individuals — young and old are enrolled.

The convention program gets underway at 8:45 p.m. today at the senior secondary school gymnasium.

Community Chest Still Lacks $6,000

Community Chest canvassers have collected $30,100 to date, Ron Wilkinson, campaign chairman, said today, $6,000 short of the target.

"The campaign office in the Toronto-Dominion Bank, Bernard Ave., will remain open until Nov. 13 for donations," Mr. Wilkinson said.

"The campaign is now in its third week past the official closing date. In spite of the best efforts of canvassers, there are still many who have not had the opportunity to donate to the Chest."

"Canvassers called back two and three times at some homes without contacting the residents. Anyone who would like to do their part and contribute their share to this year's community chest drive is asked to call in at the headquarters," Mr. Wilkinson said.

Nocturnal Driver Uses Farm Tractor

Giovanni Petrella, 1840 Dillworth Crescent, told police at 8:55 a.m. Thursday, his tractor had been driven around a field overnight and left in a mud-hole. The wiring had also been cut. The tractor was parked in a field near his house.

Sieg Motors, Harvey Ave. and Ellis St., reported at 10:55 a.m. Wednesday, someone broke an aerial on a car on the lot and ripped the nylon roof. Damage is estimated at $85.

A hearing aid was found in city park Nov. 11. Owner may claim at the RCMP office.

MAKES SHAVING EASIER

A British manufacturer has invented a roll-on shaving cream which includes its own after-shave lotion.

KELOWNA CROWD REMEMBERS DEAD OF TWO WORLD WARS

A crowd of 450 people took part in the memorial day service in city park Thursday as legionnaires, military groups and civilians remembered those who died in defense of their country.

Rev. R. S. Leitch, legion chaplain led the prayer. Skies were clear and temperatures mild for the parade to city park from the Royal Canadian Legion hall on Ellis St., down Bernard Ave. to the cenotaph. Taking part were some 300 men and women, members of the Legion, Army, Navy and Air Force cadets, and members of the Elks club, Scout contingent.

Mountie led the parade. The Kelowna senior secondary school band, under the direction of Garfield McKinley played the National Anthem. (Courier photo)

Leadership Changes Are Imperative

The election results among other things will inevitably spark speculation about potential leaders in the two major parties. It would seem logical to assume that the results were the coup de grace for Mr. Diefenbaker as leader of the Conservatives while, surely, Mr. Pearson must now admit his leadership has been tepid if not downright ineffective. Twice, with things going in his favor, he has failed to obtain a majority.

Numerous names have been mentioned during the past two years as possible Diefenbaker successors. Some of those suggested split with Mr. Diefenbaker in the famous cabinet crisis. A number of them related when the election was called and, publicly at least, rejoined the Diefenbaker party. There was suspicion that they did this believing the holder of a seat in the Commons would have the edge in the leadership race over a candidate without the Commons.

Two of these were elected on Monday: Dave Fulton in Kamloops and George Hees in Northumberland. On the other side, the national Conservative party leader, Dalton Camp, was defeated in his first attempt to be elected. Mr. Camp could have been a strong leadership contender.

While Messrs. Fulton and Hees have been elected, it would seem their stars have passed the zenith and their leadership chances are fading. Our guess is that neither of these men now have but a remote chance of being chosen.

Standing in the wings are three provincial premiers: Roblin of Manitoba, Stanfield of Nova Scotia and Roberts of Ontario. All are possibilities. At the moment it would seem that Mr. Roblin perhaps is the most likely to enter the race.

For the Liberals a leadership switch is not so immediate. They have a little time. But their need for a change is as demanding as that of the Conservatives.

The election of Robert Winters in Ontario is of interest in this connection. He was a member of the Liberal cabinet before 1958 and dropped out of politics, to become head of the Rio Tinto organization. Before Mr. Pearson was elected as leader, Mr. Winters was frequently mentioned as a potential leader. His re-entry into politics must revive this speculation.

Then, too, there is Premier Lesage of Quebec. If he is interested, he probably would have the edge on other candidates. Not only because of his personality and his political strength, but also because the Liberals have long alternated the position between English-speaking and French-speaking leaders. Mr. Lesage cannot be discounted.

At the moment it would seem imperative for both of the major parties to change leaders before the next election. The party that does not will enter the race with a very severe handicap.

Good And Not So Good

The federal election carried with it some overtones of good things and some things not so good.

In the former category there is the situation in Quebec. Here while the Liberals did make some gains, they did not make the sweep as expected. The Conservatives held their ground and the Creditistes did not falter as expected. The NDP still have to win a seat in this province.

The net result of the voting in Quebec is that there is not a solid "Quebec bloc." This had been the fear of many; it did not materialize. The Liberals alone do not speak for Quebec.

It is true that a very considerable part of the Liberal strength does come from Quebec and will exert some influence on the party, but this influence is diminished by the partial failure of the party in Quebec and the fact that at least two other parties held their ground and have a substantial representation from that province.

The fear that Quebec would be a Liberal island did not materialize and this must tend to prevent any division of the country into two fragments; Quebec versus the rest.

On the other hand the returns demonstrated another separation which will tend to divide the nation unless the trend is halted. The urban people supported the Liberals and NDP while the country people voted Conservative.

While the Conservatives captured the Halifax seats, this was their only major impression in urban areas. They did well in the essential rural seats in the prairies, the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario and, yes, B.C.

The Liberals and the NDP on the other hand received most of their support from the cities.

Redistribution may have some effect on this trend of city against country, but it is unlikely to eliminate it. Redistribution will give more seats to the urban areas, which on the face of it should increase NDP and Liberal seats in the Commons.

Something more than redistribution will be needed to prevent Canadian politics reorienting into country and city parties.

Bygone Days

November 1956

In spite of severe cold, Kelowna paid respect to the war dead. Pipers, B.C. Dragoons and the Legion paraded to the Cenotaph in a biting cold wind and near zero temperature. The service was conducted by Rev. R. S. Leitch. Lt. Col. G. D. Johnson, CO of the B.C. Dragoons was in command of the parade. The march to the Arena to place a wreath on the plaque there was cancelled.

In Passing

Of course, we don't have pure democracy. Public schooling is socialism; compulsory education is dictatorship.

As far back as anybody can remember, most children learned only as much as they were compelled to.

It's certainly a big pity that a person can't live in this world without risking his life while doing it.

A hobby doesn't necessarily keep a person from going nuts. It may just give his nuttiness a harmless outlet.

Don't try to make your guests feel at home. If they wanted to feel at home, they would have stayed there.

It often happens that when you think twice about something, you have to think a third time to play off the tie.

It is wondered if those who write advertising for automobiles don't work harder polishing superlatives in an- nouncements.

In order to read the handwriting on the wall, many a person would need a rear-view mirror.

Easy Purchase Of Arms Boosts Crime Rate In U.S.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (CP) — Two men walked into Ye Old Hunter gun shop here last March 30 and purchased two Finnish Lahti anti-tank cannons with ammunition.

One cannon was recovered Oct. 20 from Long Island, N.Y., waters and linked with the 300,000 rufiyah-by-cannon of a Brinks vault at Syracuse, N.Y., the weekend of Oct. 20.

Another was recovered in Quebec City last February after an abortive assault on another Brinks vault. Canadian Joel Singer, 33, of Chateaufort, Que., is wanted in the Syracuse case as well as other Canadians as well, while Singer's uncle, Canadian-born Jack Frank, has been arrested in the U.S.

The anti-tank cannon, seven feet long and firing a 30-millimetre shell, were used in the 1939-40 Finnish defence against Soviet tanks. They illustrate the wealth of warlike tools available to discriminating criminals in the United States today.

Their availability was cited last spring by Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach in testifying before a Senate inquiry into a bill to tighten federal controls on firearm sales.

At any rate, it does not appear to have sold any arms to the sensitive Caribbean area since Fidel Castro's Cuba fell out with the U.S.

At home in the U.S.-and owner Cummings told the Senate arms inquiry in July that half its sales are domestic.

Interarmco offers a considerable array of firearms on a mail - order basis. There are some restrictions depending on federal and the various state laws.

In the case of the two anti-tank weapons sold March 30, for $19.95-4 was $29.25-and the ammunition runs from $1 to $1.50 a shell in lots of 100, depending on quantity and quality.

Ye Old Hunter is a retail outlet for the International Armaments Corporation on the banks of the Potomac River here. Interarmco, as it's called, is owned by a former arms expert for the Central Intelligence Agency called Samuel Cummings, now a resident in tax-free Monaco and a millionaire.

In the shadowy regions of the international arms supply business, Interarmco can supply anything from a submarine to the jolliest gasoline called napalm currently in use against the Vietnamese Viet Cong. The word is that Interarmco's foreign sales follow guidance from the state department-and that perhaps the firm helps the state department keep tabs on where the global arms market is warmest at the moment.

NONE GO TO CUBA

At any rate, it does not appear to have sold any arms to the sensitive Caribbean area since Fidel Castro's Cuba fell out with the U.S.

At home in the U.S.-and owner Cummings told the Senate arms inquiry in July that half its sales are domestic.

Interarmco offers a considerable array of firearms on a mail - order basis. There are some restrictions depending on federal and the various state laws.

In the case of the two anti-tank weapons sold March 30, for example, a check showed the buyers gave a bogus address here. The FBI were tipped and it is another story of how police authorities - apparently including the RCMP-kept the secret.

Interarmco apparently has imported nearly 1,000 of the Finnish cannons in the last few years and sold more than $60.

Cummings testified on a bill which would prohibit interstate mail-order sales of weapons and shipment of such arms. It would increase the current federal gun-seller's license of $1 to $100 and outlaw interstate arms traffic in machine-guns, tommy guns and anti-tank guns as well as grenades and gas masks.

CHEAP GUNS BLAMED

Cummings said the chief culprit in supplying criminals is the cheap foreign pistol or revolver which Interarmco has never handled.

At the same time, experience flowing from race riots such as the recent outbreak in the Los Angeles area shows a drastic increase in arms sales at the time - in campaigning for the Virginia governorship recently, American Nazi leader George Lincoln Rockwell was able to appear on paid television brandishing a rifle which he urged "white" Americans to keep at hand.

Evidence before the Senate inquiry cited by Senator Dodd showed an arsenal taken from the fanatic right-wing movement called The Minutemen which included bazookas, Finnish and Soviet mortars and a grenade-launcher.

Dodd said 75 per cent of the world's surplus military firearms wind up in the U.S. and Katzenbach said the Finnish anti-tank cannon and similar arms help account for an increase of 27 per cent last year in bank robberies and a rise of nine per cent in murders.

OTTAWA REPORT

To See Ourselves Aim Of Census

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

"To see ourselves" — that could be defined as the purpose of the forthcoming census of Canada.

In 1961, 30,000 census-takers spent three weeks in city and rural areas visiting every home across Canada, to gather the information for the census. That material was all tabulated, and for the past four years the Census Division of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has been publishing that mound of material in statistical reports.

One such report is entitled "housing — water supply, bath and toilet facilities." From this, you can learn that 447 of the 4,212 occupied dwellings in Nanaimo, B.C., have two or more inside flush toilets. Or that 645 of the 4,116 homes in Pembroke, Ont., have no installed bath or shower. Another report, entitled "agriculture—farms by size and use of farm land," tells us that the 317 farms in Quebec County cover 4,768 acres, or which slightly over half is unimproved land.

The report "labor force—occupation by sex" tells us that the only leather cutter in Prince Edward Island is a female; that there are 16 longshoremen in portless Saskatchewan; that the only two female prospectors in Canada both live in Ontario.

MONKEY MOVES, MUMS

Everyone is interested in money, especially the neighbors' money, so one fat report of 196 pages which might even be a best-seller at its price of $1.50 is "Migration, fertility and income by census tracts." That is for sure a strange combination to put—and I quote the title of Dr. Guy Marcour's famous book on the eighth scandal of the Pearson regime—"In the same bag."

This report, says the introduction, "presents basic income, population movement and fertility" for each of Canada's 25 tracted cities.

It comes as a surprise, I expect, to learn that, among Canada's 18 largest communities, the highest average family income is that in the metropolitan area of our capital. Ottawa leads the country with $6,643. Toronto is second, Calgary third, and Sudbury fourth with $6,218. Then come, in order, Montreal, Hamilton, Regina, Edmonton, London, Kingston, Vancouver, Winnipeg, then Oshawa thirteenth with $5,832, Quebec City next with $5,601 and Saskatoon, full-fledged with $5,797; then Halifax, Victoria and Windsor eighteenth with $5,384.

Within that broad picture, Canada's wealthiest neighborhood is shown to be the section of Westmount at the top of Montreal's Mount Royal. Its population over four years of age is 2,400. Of its 538 family households, no less than 480 enjoy an income in the top bracket of $10,000 plus—and it is very plus, for the average income of those 538 homes is $42,705.

Most of these communities show a majority of residents who moved home during the five years preceding the 1961 census. The rapid growth of the new suburbs is exemplified by one section of Scarborough, just east of Toronto, of whose population of 10,309 only 263 lived there five years earlier.

Brides in the 15-34 age group are helping Canada's population explosion — generally having many more children than brides in the previous 20 years. The palm goes to young brides of Beauport, Quebec of 24 and under, who in 1961 boasted an average of 5 1/2 babies.

Starting in 1956, work is still continuing on the 1961 census; it has cost $17,000,000 to date. Work has already started in preparation for the 1971 census.

France Boosts Education Cost

PARIS (Reuters) — France will increase its expenditure on education to a record 17 per cent of the national budget next year.

Almost one-fifth of all state revenue will be spent on education — on teaching in the present schools and universities and in building new ones.

Education Minister Christian Fouchet said in a recent parliamentary debate on the 1966 education budget that it was the continuation of an expansion which, in the last few years, had finally given national education the priority it must have.

France's expenditure on education has almost doubled in the last three years.

Jaw Goes Click Following Yawn

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: Several months ago I yawned and there was a tiny noise in the jaw area. Then the side of my face, near the ear, began to pain like a toothache.

My doctor checked me and advised me to see my dentist, who took X-rays but could find nothing wrong. He did say that the jaw might be dislocated but that it would probably return to normal eventually.

The jaw still seems to be out of place. Even though the pain has subsided, I have to be careful how I chew. What do you suggest?—MRS. R.C.

This annoying business of having your jaw crack is by no means unusual. The question is how much pain results and for how long. A hard yawn can cause a temporary dislocation of the jaw, stretching the joint capsules and leaving a lot of tenderness after the dislocation has been corrected—or has corrected itself. (A continued dislocation is unbearably painful.)

This sort of temporary dislocation and subsequent pain occurs often enough so that some elaborate studies have been made. In one such study, it was found that about 60 per cent of cases of jaw pain and cracking were due to problems of the teeth and abnormalities of chewing. Thus your doctor's advice to see your dentist was very sound.

About 20 per cent more of the cases were caused by joint disease (rheumatism, gout, etc.). In the rest, no specific cause could be ascertained. It may have been just too big a yawn, or the jaw might have been out of position at the moment of strain, or some such thing. Whatever the cause, when the joint capsules are stretched, they can stay sensitive for quite a while.

It may be, Mrs. R.C., that your jaw will gradually return to normal. The lack of pain is an excellent sign. However, if you have further trouble, they have another look to see whether either of the two main causes is at work: dental examination to make sure that a faulty "bite" isn't pushing your jaw slightly out of correct alignment; or X-rays of the jaw joint proper, to see if there are any signs of arthritic or similar disease.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would minute amounts of calomine lotion, ingested more or less daily, be dangerous? Would they amount for a prolonged bout of diarrhea?—V. F. P.

I cannot imagine why you would take this lotion internally. That isn't what it is for. And how small are the "minute" amounts?

Calomine lotion is excellent for the external treatment of various itchy skin conditions.

Not all calomine mixtures are the same. The base, however, is zinc oxide, known to have been used in the past as an astringent for the digestive tract. I don't know of any reason for using it for that purpose now. The lotion also contains lime water as well as other materials to help keep the zinc oxide in suspension.

Some mixtures contain milk of magnesia, which has a laxative effect if taken internally. Others may contain phenol (carbazole acid). So my answer is yes, continued taking of the lotion may be dangerous, and it could cause diarrhea. Keep it on the outside of the body, where it belongs.

The Kelowna Jaycees hosted the ladies' program of the Okanagan-Mainland Jaycees' fall weekend congress over the past weekend. All the functions were held in the Royal Anne Hotel and Mrs. M. White was the chairman of the ladies' program. Several members manned the registration desk and most of the membership worked in some way on other parts of the congress.

On Saturday evening the ladies enjoyed hearing the Jaycees' effective speaking competition which was followed by a lively dance. During the evening, Mrs. F. Lillies were honored by all the delegates on the occasion of Mrs. Lillies' transfer from Kelowna to Vernon. Mrs. W. Westradowski presented Mrs. Lillies with a necklace and auring set from the Kelowna Jaycees. Mrs. Lillies was the secretary of the local unit.

After breakfast Sunday, the delegates took part in the business session which was chaired by Mrs. W. H. Westradowski, president of the Kelowna unit. The secretary was Mrs. F. Lillies. After coffee and doughnuts, the meeting reconvened for panel discussions. Mrs. M. White chaired this portion of the agenda and the three panelists were: Mrs. A. Furniss, president Penticton Jaycees, speaking on allocation of funds; Mrs. D. Rogers, membership chairman Kamloops unit speaking on club education and Mrs. G. Saklinsky, president Vernon Jaycees speaking on the roles of older and newer Jaycees.

The noon luncheon was held with the Jaycees and was followed by a comedy fashion show. The Penticton Jaycees depicted the 1930's; Vernon Jaycees, the teenagers of today; the Kamloops unit, the year 2000.

and Kelowna, the Beverley Hills. This proved to be most amusing and imaginative and the congress ended with a social hour where ice and cakes were served.

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson recently returned from a motor trip through the Southern States including Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, and a visit to Juarez, Mexico. On their return trip they spent a week at Las Vegas where they attended the convention of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Among the many farewell parties held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Kirkwood, who left on Thursday to make their home in Vancouver, was a delightful party hosted by the Sailing Division of the Yacht Club last week, and on Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bridger entertained the staff of the Bank of Montreal in Mr. and Mrs. Kirkwood's honor after five at Hochelaga. Mr. Kirkwood has been transferred to the main branch of Bank in Vancouver.

R. P. MacLean left Wednesday on a business trip to Toronto and Montreal. He was accompanied by Mrs. MacLean, and during their absence Mrs. A. Kennedy will be the house guest of Mrs. MacLean's mother, Mrs. W. Rightmyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wood are spending the weekend at the Coast where they will stay at the Coachman Inn in North Vancouver while Mr. Wood attends the Coppe managers' meetings.

Mrs. D. A. Hinde who moved into her new home on Holson road last week has returned from a short holiday at the Coast.

ANN LANDERS

No Respect Is Due After Years Of Hell

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem and since you caused it I hope you will straighten it out.

My husband passed away five months ago. This may sound terrible, but his death freed me from a living hell. We never had any children because he didn't want any. For 11 years I put up with his lying, drinking, gambling and abusive language. On three separate occasions he brought women home to spend the night. I was quietly making plans to leave him when he was killed in an accident.

A long-time friend who lost his wife two years ago has asked me to marry him. I have said yes. He is a fine person and I want to be a mother to his two little girls.

Now—the trouble. I asked my clergyman how long it was proper for a widow to wait before she remarries. He said "At least one year." Then he wrote to you. Your reply was, "It's how you feel that counts."

Well, Ann, I feel like getting married tomorrow. Who is right, you or the clergyman?

—DILEMMA

Dear Dil: People who go around collecting opinions should be prepared for a variety of answers. The "wait a year" custom is well and good if a widow wishes to pay real respect to her deceased husband. But why pay respect to 11 years of hell?

Dear Ann Landers: I got married three months ago and already I am writing to Ann Landers. I think this is a bad sign.

Before I married Adelle she told me her mother would always come first in her life, no matter what. Well, she is proving it.

My father-in-law's business takes him out of town every three weeks for two days. Adelle goes to sleep with her mother whenever her father is out of town and I am left alone. I don't like this a bit and I have said so, but I might as well talk to the fire hydrant. Where do I stand?—HOUSTON

Dear Houston: You stand sec-

ROOM FOR FEMALES AT REFORM SCHOOLS

TORONTO (CP)—There's a room for boys and girls together in rehabilitative training schools, Allan Grossman, Ontario reforms institutions' representative, told a legislative committee on youth. Mr. Grossman suggested the possibility of co-educational training schools for young people up to 18 years old.

A step in that direction has already been taken, he said, with the practice of inviting college girls to dances held at the Ontario Training Centre for Young Men in Brampton. The dances are part of a growing community involvement in rehabilitation, he said.

A department official said: "We're striving for this sort of socialization for quite a while and have not had any problems."

Sister Developed New Approach To Teenage Students

WINNIPEG (CP)—After 50 years of teaching, Sister Hedwig Neumann is still "in" with the teen-agers.

Today's teens provided the greatest challenge of a teaching career she began as a 15-year-old, says Sister Neumann, a member of the Roman Catholic Grey Nuns order.

"I came to realize the ways weren't right for today's world. Children could no longer be regimented with strict discipline if they were to fit into the world after their education was completed."

"They have a right to voice their opinions and describe their thoughts."

Sister Neumann said she felt that educationists abused their rights for a long time by failing to gain insight into a child's personality and his dreams for the future. She developed her own approach to teenagers.

"I promoted drama and glee clubs in my high school classes. If you get a child involved in class projects, he won't want to stay away or not pay attention. They don't want to miss anything."

The secret of successful discipline is "dialogue"—talking things over, exchanging opinions, each respecting the others' ideas."

MEMBER OF MCINTOSH CLAN GREET'S NATIONAL APPLE WEEK

A refreshing member of the McIntosh clan in her tartan, and a refreshing member of the Apple family in its appealing McIntosh Red covering, greet National Apple Week Nov. 11-20, 1965. This year's national apple crop is the second largest ever recorded in Canada—an estimated 216 million bushels, slightly higher than last year, and 19 per cent above the 1953-63 average. Federal Minister of Agriculture, Harry Hays, declared National Apple Week Nov. 11-20 and urged continuing Canadian support of this domestic industry.

Guiding Light Of "Homemakers" Campaigns On The Food Front

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Gordon B. Desmond is a gentle, grandmotherly woman who wants to see a return to good old-fashioned foodstuffs.

She spearheads a continuing campaign on the U.S. government and Congress for such things as more peanuts in peanut butter, for baby food minus sodium carboxymethyl, for banning of sodium nitrite from junior frankfurters and for the defeat of pending legislation which would permit the use of cotton fibre cellulose in jelly beans.

Mrs. Desmond, a grandmother, is president and guiding light of the Federation of Homemakers.

ENLISTS MEMBERS

This organization, formed six years ago, has its headquarters in nearby Arlington, Va., in a small suite of offices cluttered with mail, government reports on food, and such formidable volumes as Gleason's Toxicology of Commercial Products.

Mrs. Desmond declines, for strategic reasons, to say how many members the federation has. But she announces proudly that it has enlisted 800 new ones in the last five months (dues $3, sponsoring membership $10).

Currently, her efforts are centering on the U.S. food and drug administration's hearings on whether it should go through with its proposed rule that peanut butter must contain at least 90 per cent peanuts.

To be called peanut butter, she tells the administration, the product should contain 95 per cent peanuts, a standard which would alter the composition of much of the peanut butter now on the U.S. market.

Mrs. Desmond was a legal secretary before her marriage to Gordon Desmond, now a retired army major. While her daughter was growing up, Mrs. Desmond's hobbies were good works for the brownies and girl scouts.

East Kelowna Parish Holds Successful Annual Bazaar

A large crowd of Christmas shoppers attended the annual Parish Bazaar held in the East Kelowna Community Hall on Saturday afternoon.

The very attractive stalls lining the walls of the hall included a display of interesting novelties for Christmas gifts, and a selection of pretty aprons, children's garments and knitted gloves and mittens made by the members of the parish. The white elephant table offered china, ornaments and costume jewellery, and the home cooking stall was soon sold out of cakes, cookies, pies and other delectable goodies, as was the home-made candy and last but not least was the beautiful assortment of flowers, fruit and vegetables displayed and sold by the men of the parish.

Showers Honor Bride-Elect

Miss Margaret Thornton-Trump of Lakeview Heights, whose marriage to Bruce Hamilton takes place on Saturday, Nov. 13 at First United Church, Kelowna, was honored one evening last week at a delightful miscellaneous shower. Mrs. Norman Frederick and Mrs. Harry Truitt entertained 22 of the bride-elect's friends at the home of Mrs. Frederick on Sutherland Ave. The gifts so attractively wrapped, were wheeled in on a prettily decorated tea wagon, featuring pink and white roses and streamers.

On Monday of this week, Mrs. Jack Prior, Leon Ave., Kelowna was hostess at a surprise kitchen shower for Miss Thornton-Trump, the many useful gifts being presented in a gaily decorated laundry basket.

A group of friends, home from University for the weekend had the opportunity of wishing Margaret well at a lovely coffee party given by Mrs. Carl Briese and Brenda at their lakeshore home at Casa Loma. The bride-to-be was delighted with the unique display of preserves and canned goods presented to her at the surprise party.

New Organization Formed For Rutland Centennial Job

RUTLAND — A new organization has been formed to assist with Rutland's Centennial project (a community hall). The new group is called the Rutland Youth Centennial Committee and it already has some 25 members, all teenagers, enrolled and with the following officers: president, Regina Fliegel; vice-president, Dennis Sherman; secretary, Lorraine Bittel; treasurer, Brian Waters; publicity chairman, Linda Cross; public relations chairman, Penny Anderson.

The building of a community hall is a large task for the community and the young people plan to aid in various ways, some of the suggested fundraising projects being: a team fair, teen dance, bottle drive, newspaper drive, "save day" and various types of rallies.

The committee started off with the auctioning of a hair shampoo and hair set by Miss Fliegel. Tickets may be purchased from any member, the winner to be announced Nov. 12. Miss Cross, who is publicity chairman and also it might be noted, Rutland's "Miss McIntosh" for this year, commented that this committee has volunteered its time and services for the good of the community, and she hopes they will be well supported by the people of Rutland.

Plans Made At Winfield For St. Margaret's Bazaar

WINFIELD — Main business of the meeting of St. Margaret's Guild held at the home of Miss Connie Beasley was to complete arrangements for the Christmas bazaar Dec. 1, at 8:30 p.m.

In the absence of president Mrs. Hugh Barnau, vice-president Mrs. Gordon Shaw was in the chair and 11 members were in attendance. Rev. Wm. Edington was also present.

It was decided there would be a home cooking stall which will have all kinds of baking for sale including Christmas puddings, also a needlecraft stall which would hold many gifts for Christmas giving and a white elephant stall.

Following the meeting a social hour was held during which hostesses Mrs. Ron Hall and Mrs. Sid Land served refreshments.

There will be no meeting in December and the January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ron Hall.

SCENE AT RUTLAND CENOTAPH THURSDAY (Bert Chichester Photo)

Many Groups Present At Rutland Nov. 11 Service

RUTLAND — Rutland's Remembrance Day Service, held at 1:00 p.m. at the War Memorial on the elementary school lawn, was very well attended, with representatives of most of the youth groups of the district present, including the Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Pathfinders and Rangers.

Heading the parade from the secondary school to the Memorial was the Canadian Legion Pipe Band from Kelowna, together with Legion members from Rutland and Kelowna, and appearing for the first time were members of the BPOE (Elks), both men and women's branches being in attendance.

The service was conducted by Rev. R. E. Leitch, pastor of the Kelowna Legion, who gave a brief address, and acted as chairman of the proceedings. Mrs. K. Daniels was at the piano, and the United Church women's choir led in the singing of O Canada, the hymn "O Valiant Hearts," and God Save the Queen.

At the placing of the wreaths, which followed the two minutes silence, Mrs. Katherine Schmidt, mother of one of the young men whose names are inscribed on the stone, placed the first wreath. Her son, Trooper Nick Schmidt, was killed in action in Italy on Aug. 31, 1944, while serving with the 9th Armored Regiment (B.C. Dragoons).

Wreaths were then placed by President Harold Whitehouse of the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Legion and by other groups represented there, and by individuals. Last Post and Reveille were played by three young trumpeters from the Rutland school band, Bruce Stevens, Daryl Edstrom, and David Kyle. Pipe Major Arthur of the Kelowna Legion Pipe Band played the lament.

Arrangements for this year's service were in the hands of a committee of local veterans, headed by Ernest Nepton, a member of the executive of the Kelowna Legion.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Rutland Fire Brigade held their regular monthly meeting recently and among the items of business dealt with was the final arrangements for the penny auction and annual project of the W.A. This will be held on Nov. 24 in the Parish Hall of St. Theresa's Catholic Church at 8 p.m. A nominating committee was also appointed to choose a slate of officers for the annual meeting. Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting, by the hostess for the evening.

VALLEY SOCIAL ROUNDUP

PEACHLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Beet are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter in the Kelowna General Hospital, a sister for Jerry.

Mrs. Jeffrey Todd attended the recreational zone meeting held in Summerland Tuesday evening, accompanying Jon McKinnon, recreational consultant from Kelowna. Lawrence White, head and Henry Poulson of Westbank. Delegates also attended from Penticton and Summerland.

Reports of the year's activities were given by the delegates.

WINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. G. Edington have returned home from Vancouver where they attended as delegates from the South Okanagan at the recent provincial Social Credit convention.

RUTLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bleasdale left for the coast by car to visit friends over the weekend.

Joseph Lischka of Steelman, Sask., was a recent visitor at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Lischka, Beigo Road.

Mrs. Alma Kellerman returned home from Winnipeg, where she had gone to attend the funeral of her eldest son, who passed away about a month ago. En route home she visited relatives and friends in Saskatchewan.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Rutland Fire Brigade held their regular monthly meeting recently and among the items of business dealt with was the final arrangements for the penny auction and annual project of the W.A. This will be held on Nov. 24 in the Parish Hall of St. Theresa's Catholic Church at 8 p.m. A nominating committee was also appointed to choose a slate of officers for the annual meeting. Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting, by the hostess for the evening.

"Rock Hound" Tells Of Hobby

RUTLAND — The monthly meeting of the Rutland United church, held in the church basement hall Nov. 8, was attended by 20 or more members and guests.

George Menzies of Kelowna treated the members to some interesting slides of rock shows, held in the United States, at which "rock hounds" display their collections. He also had a number of interesting samples of rocks that he himself had gathered.

Interest in the hobby had grown tremendously in recent years he said, and many finds of valuable stones have been made. The chairman, Elwyn Cross, thanked the speaker for his interesting address.

At the business session the president reported that a successful wood bee had been held the previous Saturday, to obtain wood for the church furnace for the winter.

The UCW served a supper for the members. Plans for the next meeting will be made at an executive meeting to be held next week. The supply of Christmas nuts from the Nut House, Vancouver, having arrived, the members were all provided with a supply to sell during the next few weeks.

Princess Sees Grand Canyon

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — After a day of resting in the Arizona sunshine, Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, fly over Grand Canyon at sunset today. They spend Saturday boating on Lake Powell in northern Arizona.

The Snowdons sunned themselves Thursday around the pool at the home of their hosts, Lewis Douglas, former U.S. ambassador to Britain, and Mrs. Douglas.

They dropped plans to visit a nearby mission and astronomy observatory—to rest-up—from nearly a week's hectic tour of San Francisco and Los Angeles. Relaxing with them were actor Roddy McDowall, Mrs. Danny Kaye and actress Hope Lange and her husband, director Alan Pakula.

Yesterday's Cryptogram: PARTY IN THE MADNESS OF THE MANY FOR THE GAIN OF A FEW.—SWIFT

OTTAWA (CP)—After using all his persuasive powers to have a full election, Finance Minister Gordon decided some weeks ago that if the Liberal government failed to win a Commons majority he would quit the cabinet.

Therefore the resignation announced Thursday night was not a surprise. The minister's action taken in the depths of despair. From the beginning of the election campaign, Mr. Gordon, who doubled as his party's campaign chairman, felt his personal judgment was at stake.

With the party's failure to get a majority, the 56-year-old minister took full responsibility. "The conclusion is quite clear," he wrote to Prime Minister Pearson. "I gave you my advice. . . . I accept full responsibility for this."

While it was generally known Mr. Gordon was one of the chief engineers behind the election—along with National Organizer Keith Dwyer—his resignation was expected.

It was recalled how the former accountant and economist had stuck grimly to his post through the hectic five-month hammering he absorbed after his first budget in 1963.

At that time it was freely predicted he would step down. He was hampered by the opposition for bringing in outside consultants, still under salary to private industry, to help prepare the budget. And he was forced to cancel one of the budget's major provisions and modify another.

While Mr. Gordon was reported to have offered his resignation to the prime minister at that time, it was known he didn't want to quit. Unlike his position on Monday's election, he felt he was basically right in his first budget.

"When people talk of that budget," he told a reporter not long ago, "they think only of the things I was criticised for. But that was basically a good budget; the economy needed it at that time, and subsequent events have shown that."

For the election that misfired, he was willing to accept the entire blame, although Mr. Pearson's letter rejected this.

The resignation appears to have added difficulties on a already troubled prime minister.

Another New Baby Nothing Unusual

PORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Another new baby around the home will be nothing new to Edmund Davis, 44. The newcomer is Mr. Davis' second son, born to the seven-year-old son Thursday at Lee Memorial Hospital, Fort Myers.

Edmund is living in a modest cottage on Sanibel Island, Fla., with his wife and her husband, Edmund, a groundskeeper, at their modest cottage on Sanibel Island.

BOOKS COME OFF LEFT
FELPHAM, England (CP)—Answer to attract more tourists, the town council here put up signs to mark places of interest, particularly the cottage of 18th-century poet William Blake. However, the present owner of the cottage was not sold and the streams of unwanted guests brought strong complaints. The council now has agreed that, as Blake would have said, a person deserves privacy, and the signs are being removed.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By R. JAY BECKER
(The Record-Bridge to Master Individual Championship Play)

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the six of hearts. When you play the king, it wins the trick. South playing the four. How would you now play the hand?
2. You are declarer with the same hand at Three Notrump, but this time, when you play the king of hearts, South wins it with the ace and returns the ten. How would you now play the hand?

1. In notrump contracts you usually try to develop tricks in your longest suit (diamonds, in the present case), but you certainly cannot afford to do this in all hands. For example, the proper play here is to attack clubs, not diamonds.

Lead the ten of clubs at trick two and finesse. If the ten loses to the king, you are certain of nine tricks consisting of three spades, a heart, two diamonds and three clubs. North cannot continue hearts without sacrificing a trick, and you can be sure of at least nine tricks against any other return.

If it turns out that South has the king of clubs, you can make certain of ten tricks by repeating the finesse.

If you were to attack diamonds instead of clubs and it developed that South had the queen, you could be defeated with a heart return through the queen.

2. The situation changes drastically when South wins the heart and returns the ten. Instead of South being the player you cannot afford to have on lead, North becomes the player to fear. He is the one with the heart length (the probably started with five of them) and he must be prevented from cashing his hearts after they are established.

Accordingly, you duck the ten of hearts at trick two and win the next heart with the queen. You lead the jack of diamonds and finesse. You do mind losing this trick to South because he can no longer do you any harm.

Suppose South takes the queen and returns a club. You go up with the ace and run with nine tricks. Don't try to be a hero by taking the club finesse. You might wake up in a hospital, badly bruised.

Of course, it is possible that when South takes the queen of diamonds he will have a heart to return. This is not something to really worry about because, if that is the case, the hearts were originally divided 4-4 and you will still make three no-trump.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

A good day for planning for the future. Conferences with your family and business associates should work out well and yield some good ideas. Romance is also favored.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope shows fine prospects. There is practically no phase of your life which will not be governed by generous planetary influences for the greater part of the next 12 months. As of now—with the exception of brief periods in early April, mid-May and early June—there will be special emphasis on the successful outcome of business, property and financial ventures during the year ahead, but you will find that you will probably make greater headway by concentrating on the activities with which you are presently engaged than you will be undertaking new enterprises. Most notable periods for monetary advancement: The best four-and-a-half months, early July, September, late October and early November; for business and/or job progress: Late December, January, June and September.

Your personal life is favored, too. As an example, if romance is on your mind, look forward to happy developments during the next three weeks, in January, late May, late June and late July. Travel will be governed by auspicious influences in January, July and September. And, for most of the year, domestic concerns should work out exceptionally well. In this connection, look for a possible change of environment in July. A child born on this day will be extremely energetic and ambitious, but will have to curb tendencies toward undue secretiveness and suspiciousness.

News Item: Kelowna Buckaroos win seventh straight. Don Colley's high flying Kelowna Buckaroos have started the new season where they left off last year. At the top of the Okanagan Junior Hockey League, Colley has been receiving great performances from all members of Buckaroos. No one player has been outstanding to date. This is a healthy situation. This is the way winning hockey clubs are born.

John Strong, Mike Darnborough and Marcello Vanni have made up the top production line. Don Colley, Ray Scuderi and Lynn Swenson are beginning to live up to their potential and should begin to show the way in Buck scoring very soon. Billy Bell, Mike Monahan and Dave Curran have performed ably and as seen yesterday, Billy Bell has plenty of scoring punch.

Buckaroos defencemen have performed well in the first six games, as attested by the number of goals scored this year. Kelowna's two goalkeepers Aljo Kammings and Terry Louvenness will provide Colley with steady work as long as they stay healthy.

All in all a very interesting year for the hockey.

News Item: Bombers advance into final series against Calgary.

Following last Sunday's sudden death semifinal series Winnipeg Blue Bombers coach Red Grant should not feel a judicial inquiry is not voted coach of the year in the Canadian Football League.

Grant's genius and hard work moved the Bombers from a last place finish in 1964 to a second place finish in 1965. The way Winnipeg played against Regina in the semifinal game indicates they are a power to be dealt with and that Calgary will have their hands full come Saturday in the first of three games to decide a western representative in the Grey Cup.

News Item: Terrell wins in 11. It looks like the end of the road for Canadian heavyweight champion, George Chavala. In his match with Ernie Terrell, George's efforts to fight "his kind of fight" were over and over again thwarted by the larger Terrell. Terrell had the advantage in reach and was successful in keeping Chavala at arms length. Chavala has decided to head for Europe on an exhibition tour. Why? To get in shape for another major fight or to think things over. Much thought will be required of Chavala after his fight. Especially now since he has dropped in the World Boxing Association ratings.

News Item: Toronto Maple Leafs drubbed by Chicago 9-4. Two many old weary legs dot the Toronto Maple Leaf roster. Starting in goal we have Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk. Establishment of Bower's age is the ambition of every one working at a sports desk.

Terry Sawchuk, while younger than Bower is also due for retirement in the very near future.

Allan Stanley, Tim Horton and the loss of Carl Brewer leaves coach Punch Imlach with the frightening thought of losing more hair and developing more ulcers. The Toronto defence is gone.

Up front we also have some older men trying to keep up to the likes of Bobby Hull and Dennis Hull. Red Kelly is about ready for retirement as is George Armstrong. Mahavolich is not the hockey player he was a few years back. Dave Keen has slowed down a step or two.

Where is Imlach going to find replacements? He has just one year to do so, because New York Rangers are hot on the Leafs' tail and could, with a few breaks, steal a playoff spot from Toronto come spring playoff time.

News Item: New Toronto football team loses $100,000. How many reading this column even know there was a new Toronto football team. There is in the United States a Continental Football League made up of smaller centres of population, plus one or two larger centres. Toronto Rifles were awarded a franchise last year. Gates this year at Varsity Stadium in Toronto have averaged 8,000.

Does the new team's drawing power in Toronto sound the death knell of Canadian football as such? Will the American or National Football Leagues come into Canada with new franchises. If so will Canadian football moult its skin, or will they step aside for the invaders? Only time will tell.

Major League Baseball Face Anti-Trust Action

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Major league baseball faced the choice today of remaining in Milwaukee or risking an anti-trust suit in Wisconsin courts, a prospect that a baseball lawyer said "could lead to the ruin of the game as we know it."

The dilemma, which left Wisconsin and Milwaukee County in a position to bargain to keep the Braves from shifting to Atlanta next season, developed Tuesday in U.S. district court.

Judge Robert E. Tahan ruled that Wisconsin courts should decide the anti-trust suit filed by Wisconsin's attorney general.

The ruling, which cannot be appealed, means the anti-trust suit will reach the federal courts only after being heard in Wisconsin.

The state is now free to seek an injunction in its own courts against the Braves' shift to Atlanta, planned for 1966.

Should an injunction be granted, it could keep the Braves in Milwaukee until the case clears the Wisconsin courts. That could be well after the start of the 1966 season.

IMPLICATIONS DEEP The implications raised by the ruling go deeper than just the Braves' case.

Karl Jinkinson, Braves' attorney, acknowledged as much when he told Judge Tahan prior to his ruling that if Wisconsin could control the activities of baseball "it would lead to the ruin of the game as we know it."

"Wisconsin can do this, then all the other states too can claim they are being prevented from having teams. We might wind up with 60 teams."

Baseball fought to have the choice heard in the federal courts. Jinkinson argued that the case should be heard together with a federal anti-trust suit filed against the league by Milwaukee County.

The suit maintains that the National League is so organized as to create a monopoly in the employment of players of major league quality, as well as in the scheduling and the broadcast of games.

The suit also strikes at the authority of the commissioner of baseball and the sacrosanct reserve clause, which enables a baseball club to have complete control of its players as a property right.

NEVER BEEN REVIEWED Baseball's peculiar structure has never come under full-scale judicial review.

Wisconsin and Milwaukee County officials were gleeful in their public comments on the ruling, but privately they were elated.

One said: "It was a very significant ruling. Now we hope it will go further and possibly give Milwaukee a chance to expand or buy the Braves."

One official close to the group trying to purchase a franchise for Milwaukee said: "I think baseball is now faced with a decision. I think they'll be willing to talk to us now."

No Braves' official was available for comment.

One official said there was no guarantee that Wisconsin would drop its suit should baseball relent and either keep the Braves in Milwaukee or grant an expansion franchise.

The official pointed out that the state has charged baseball with a violation of law and it might not be possible to drop the charge in return for a franchise.

Rangers Early Season Drive Could Lead To Playoff Berth

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers may give up their fifth-place lease in the National Hockey League standings and buy some playoff property.

The Rangers, who dwelled in fifth place for the past two years, have come alive early in the season and are giving the "first division" clubs a run for their money.

New York extended its current winning streak to six games Thursday night, holding Detroit Red Wings to a 3-3 tie in the only scheduled game.

Don Marshall, formerly of Montreal Canadiens and who was a standout as a penalty killer during his Montreal days, paced the New York attack with a goal and an assist.

Bob Nevin, New York's leading scorer to date and formerly of Toronto Maple Leafs, put the Rangers ahead at 1-0 of the first period when he banged in his own rebound past spruited Detroit goalie Roger Crozier.

Defenceman Harry Howell gave New York a 2-0 lead at 13:44, just 15 seconds after Detroit defenceman Bill Gadsby was penalized for interference.

Crozier grabbed Howell's shot from the point but the puck slipped out of his glove and dribbled into the net.

Marshall's goal at 7:23 of the second period clinched New York's second successful power play of the night. The puck barely left the ice as Crozier and defencemen Warren Goffrey and Gadsby tried to cover up.

Detroit came back with ageless Gordie Howe scoring his fourth goal of the season with less than a minute left in the middle period.

Howe's goal was also his 40th during regular season play and clinched a power play. Howe passed the puck from the back of the net to Andy Bathgate, then deflected Bathgate's shot into the lower left hand corner.

MarGregor scored the only goal of the third period to tie the score and also snap the Red Wings' two-game losing streak.

Detroit outshot the Rangers 43-20 in the game with 18 of the shots coming in the final 20 minutes.

Weather To Play Role In Western Opener

CALGARY (CP) — Weather conditions may force Calgary Stampeder and Winnipeg Blue Bombers to play a soggy defensive match in the first game of the Western Football Conference best-of-three final Saturday, despite their good offensive records.

Driving snow continued to sweep Calgary Thursday and forecasts called for much the same type of weather today. Temperatures were to hit the five-degree mark.

The Stampede, under freshman coach Jerry Williams, are looking for their first WFC championship and Grey Cup since 1949.

Bud Grant's Bombers are after their first WFC title and Grey Cup since 1962, earning the chance by eliminating the Saskatchewan Roughriders in the WFC semi-finals.

Men with shovels and snow-blowing machines have been removing snow from McMahon Stadium nearly all week. But the field, although not covered by a canvas, was in good condition.

At least eight inches of snow — some of it melted — has fallen since early Tuesday. The weather office predicts a "chance of snow" Saturday, with light winds and a game — time temperature of about 25 degrees.

The game, to be televised nationally by CTV, marks the fifth straight sell-out here. Closed-circuit TV was to be set up at the Stampede Corral to accommodate other fans at $3 a head.

The second game of the series will be Nov. 17 in Winnipeg and a third, if necessary, in Calgary Nov. 20.

A scan of yards' separates the two clubs in total offense during 16 regular season games. Winnipeg has the edge but the Stampede finished in first place and the Bombers second.

The Bombers had a total offense of 1,134 yards on 3,915 yards rushing and 2,118 yards passing. The Stampede gained 3,088 yards on 2,355 yards rushing and 2,566 yards passing.

Eagle Day of Calgary completed 124 of 215 passes for 1,897 yards, while Winnipeg's Ken V. Pilon was good on 124 of 213 passes for 1,789 yards. Pilon had 15 touchdown passes, Day 12.

WILLIAMS IS CONFIDENT The Bombers blasted the Stampede 22-0 here Oct. 27 but Williams remains cool as a cucumber. When asked if the Stampede can beat the Bombers he replied "certainly."

Among the Stampeder doubt-fuls are linebacker Wayne Harris with a groin injury and guard Hal Krohn who has a slipped disc. Defensive end Ron Payne, who had cartilage removed from his knee, will be out of action until after the second game of the series.

Pilon, who suspended his knee in the semifinal, will lead the Bombers Saturday. He was out at the Stampede practice in Winnipeg earlier this week.

Defensive end Ted Hodgson, who had a bad knee, and punt return man Dick Wozney, who had a bruised back, also were working out.

Other Bombers nursing injuries are guard Sherwyn Thorson, linebacker Ken Maglick and halfback Leo Lewis.

new Snow Cruiser with 'torque sensitive drive' 3 models for '66

OMC Snow Cruiser's new 'Torque Sensitive Drive' is truly automatic—no buttons, no levers—your thumb on the throttle does the whole job and automatically selects the proper gear ratio for hills, for loads, for wide open spaces. 'Torque Sensitive Drive' is like your car's automatic transmission, only more so. Power stays always smooth and constant. The motor can't labour or race. So you get top performance, full horsepower under all conditions.

If you plan to use Snow Cruiser in deep snow country, you'll like its new floatation features, such as soft spring suspension of skis, dolly wheels and drive sprockets and its increased track-to-snow area. This makes Snow Cruiser ride high, wide and handsome. Adds extra stability, too.

We've added a host of new features to the 1966 Snow Cruiser line to give you extra pleasure and dependability.

1. New quick detachable cab for easy engine access.
2. New soft spring ski suspension.
3. New style ski with replaceable runners.
4. New soft suspended dolly wheels.
5. New spring suspended rear drive sprocket.
6. Seat back rest with storage compartment.
7. Snap-on seat cushion.
8. In-tilted running boards.
9. Lock-in neutral.
10. Ignition key, light switch, primer button.

1. Hand throttle. Handle grips tested for 50° below.
2. Lower, tougher plastic windshield.
3. Hi-Lo beam headlight.
4. New integral chrome bumper.
5. Dipsotype hand brake.

1. Large tall light.
2. Built-in tow bar.
3. No shrink, no stretch track (sub-zero tested)

This year there are three Snow Cruiser models. One has a 15 1/2" track (manual starting) and two with 20 1/2" tracks (electric starting or manual starting). All three are powered by the proven dependable 14 HP engine with 12 volt alternator, Canadian made by Outboard Marine Corporation, the world's largest manufacturer of 2-cycle engines.

Bucks Romp To 9-3 Win Over Hapless Kamloops

Kelowna broke loose for nine goals Thursday to overwhelm Kamloops Kraft Kings 9-3 in Okanagan Junior Hockey League action in Kelowna.

From the opening faceoff Kelowna made it clear why they are perched on top of the league. Buckaroos swarmed all over Kamloops and had it not been for Kamloops goalie Harvey Budarick Kelowna would have won by a far greater margin.

Kelowna opened the scoring at 11:30 of the opening frame when Bill Bell slapped home a rebound after a shot by teammate Dave Couves. The puck rolled out about 10 feet and Bell drove the disc home.

Drew Kitch, put Kelowna ahead 2-0 just 51 seconds later. John Strong had come out ahead on a faceoff and sent Kitch down the ice all alone and Drew made good his shot.

Gerald Janicki netted Kamloops first goal at 2:21 of the second period. Kamloops captain Eddie Begg had taken his shot which Terry Lawrenson saved but failed to cover the rebound and Janicki banged in the rebound.

Bill Bell's second goal of the day put Kelowna out in front by two goals again at 5:31 of the second. Bell's goal came after Mike Meehan had dug the puck out from behind the net.

Bell made the hat trick just 44 seconds later. Don Hebert broke down centre ice and almost beat Budarick. The rebound bounced out in front and Bell drove the puck home over a sprawling Kamloops netminder.

Kamloops second goal came with Kelowna defenceman Dave Cousins in the penalty box for high sticking. Kelowna's defence had a hard time clearing and the puck was dumped by Eddie Begg of Kamloops. Rasmussen kept digging at the puck and slid the rubber disc in behind Budarick while flat on the ice.

Last year's leading OJHL scorer, Eric Shashide, rounded out Kamloops' scoring at 15:45 of the third period. Dale Sandyske took the first shot that Lawrence stopped. While trying to find the puck it dropped from Terry's equipment and rolled along the goal line from where Shashide drove it into the net.

Lyn Swanson tallied Kelowna's last goal when Reg Saunders pulled Budarick to one side of the net then flipped the puck to Swanson who scored his second goal of the game.

Kelowna coach, Don Calley, although happy over the win said "we weren't skating or passing near well enough and if Kamloops had been stronger we would have had our hands full."

Andy Cloverchok, when asked about his club's poor showing said "we were missing four of our boys and we had to bring up two juveniles to round out the team. I don't think we'll go to importing players to improve our team, but give the younger local boys a chance to develop."

Next action for the Bucks will be Sunday when they travel to Vernon for a 2 p.m. game.

Hamilton Respects Jackson Prepare For Eastern Finals

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats concurred that Russ Jackson quarterback for Ottawa Rough Riders is more dangerous when he pulls out to pass or run than when he drops back into the pocket to throw.

The Toronto-based newspaper said Sunday's opening game of the Eastern Football Conference final in Ottawa, isn't afraid of Jackson, but they respect him.

Kickoff Sunday is 2 p.m. EST and the game will be carried on the CBC television network.

The second game of the two-game total-point series will be back here the following Saturday. "We've never gone into a game with Ottawa that we didn't expect Jackson to run," said coach Ralph Sarno.

"When he rolls out he has two assets. He can run or he can pass. But it has a minus, too. When he rolls out he narrows down his passing area. Any fullback quarterback is practically committed, on pass plays, to the area he's running toward. He must give up the side of the field he's running away from."

But there's one aspect of Jackson's rollout game that worries Sarno.

"It's the busted play that makes Jackson most dangerous," said the Hamilton coach. "We've studied rollouts before, but when something goes wrong his unopposed running can be real dangerous."

Sarno's opinion of Jackson as a runner is shared by almost everyone who has seen the Ottawa signal-caller in action. Many observers feel he's the most sure-footed quarterback in the Canadian Football League.

But many of those same observers figure there is no club better equipped to cope with Jackson than the Tiger-Cats, rated the strongest team in the East defensively.

It's unlikely that Jackson will choose not to run. And if he rolls out, the pressure will be on Hamilton's corner linebackers and defensive ends to contain him.

The tickets are exceptionally well off at home positions. Billy Ray Lock and Dave Vill are the defensive ends while Ted Page and Zeno Karz are the corner linebackers.

VERNON PANTHERS END YEAR UNDEFEATED IN LEAGUE PLAY

VERNON (CP)—Vernon Panthers assured themselves of a perfect season Thursday, defeating Penticton Golden Hawks 14-6 in an Okanagan High School Football League game.

The victory was Vernon's eighth straight and gave the Panthers their fourth straight league championship.

Vernon's next start will be against Chilliwack Frontiersmen at Chilliwack Nov. 20 in the Sagebrush Bowl. Vernon has also issued a challenge to the winners of either the Bayshore or Vancouver and District conferences for a sudden-death B.C. invitational championship game.

Tommy Williamson scored both touchdowns for the Panthers. He combined with quarterback Rick Sugden for his first and ran 17 yards on a reverse for the second. Fullback Grant Kauback crashed for 163 yards rushing to finish as the league's top ground gainer. Sugden's touchdown was helped him lead the league in that category.

Canadian Horse Finishes Fourth

LAUREL, Md. (CP)—The 14th running of the Washington International wound up as something of a shocker Thursday when French horses finished one-two in the $120,000 turf classic.

The $90,000 winner's purse went to Distant, third choice at 9-to-2 odds, with Carvin, 30-to-1, collecting the $25,000 second-prize money.

Roman Brother, one of the two United States entries favored to capture the 1 1/2-mile race, finished third.

Canada's George Royal, a big four-year-old bay who had been rated second at 3-to-1, came in fourth.

STRETCH BID FAILED

George Royal, owned by Ernie Hammond of Vancouver, and Robert Hall of Aldergrove, B.C., had been coasting at the rear of the seven-horse field until the top of the stretch, and finished 1 1/2 lengths behind Distant.

Finishing in order behind them were Hall to All, the second American entry, Argentina's Berenjena and England's Super Sam.

George Royal's co-owners said a bump with Berenjena starting the stretch might have made a difference.

They also thought jockey Willie Shoemaker might have kept George Royal a little closer to the pace before making his move from the outside.

"But you'll never know," said Hall. "Everyone ran a good race and it's pretty nice to come that close."

FOURTH PAID $10,000
George Royal picked up $10,000 for fourth place, pushing his lifetime earnings to $210,000.

Equestrian Team Seeks Gov't Aid

TORONTO (CP)—Jim Elder, captain of Canada's equestrian team, said Thursday that without government or private subsidies Canada can't hope to compete successfully in international competitions.

Elder takes his team into an international jumping competition today against the United States, Ireland, Mexico, Great Britain and Argentina. But he doesn't expect to do well.

He said the team suffers from the same malady that afflicts Canada's national hockey team. The opposition is subsidized.

"With us, it's only a part-time thing," he said in an interview. "We have our own businesses to run. With the Americans, they ride all year."

Elder, defending his individual championship in the competition at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, predicted the U.S. will repeat its success of previous years by winning the team title.

He said the U.S. not only has experienced riders, but seasoned horses. The Americans train their own horses, and have enough money to buy animals that show potential.

"They even buy ours," Elder said. "We train a horse and bring it along to where it is maturing and then the Americans buy it. We don't get help like that."

Warfield Not Ready To Return To Lineup

CHICAGO (AP)—Paul Warfield, Cleveland Browns' top receiver who has been sidelined since he broke a collarbone in an exhibition against the college all-stars, Aug. 6, will not be ready for action for another week.

A spokesman for the National Football League team said Thursday doctors have advised against Warfield's playing Sunday against New York Giants.

Warfield led all Browns receivers in 1964, catching 52 passes for 920 yards and nine touchdowns.

U.S. HIGHWAYS SAFER
If Canadians drove as safely as U.S. motorists, the annual saving would be 1,800 lives spared and $180,000,000 saved.

Pencil Portraits Specialty Of Newcomer To Okanagan

By FLORA EVANS

A newcomer to Kelowna is a very young commercial artist named Graham Harrop, who arrived in the Valley a little over two weeks ago, filled with an overwhelming ambition to live and make his way as an artist in Kelowna.

Graham came to Canada with his parents from Liverpool, England, in 1959, living in Vancouver for his first five years in this country, then moving with his parents to Powell River. Since 1983 he has been on his own working at various jobs such as copy boy for the Vancouver Sun, and salesman in a Calgary paint shop while completing his preliminary art education.

This shy young man, who does not like to talk about himself, is just 20 years old. He told me he has always wanted to be an artist, and as he had not the money to attend a good Canadian Art School he worked in a logging camp to earn his living while he took a three year commercial art course by correspondence from the Famous Artist School in Westport, Connecticut, during which he studied all forms of commercial art from lettering, fashion drawing to cartooning and portrait drawing. Since finishing his course, he said, he has had considerable success with his cartoons and has now completed a comic strip he hopes to have syndicated one day. He also won first prize at the Powell River Exhibition for the cartoons he entered in 1984. His favorite means of expression however is drawing pencil portraits of men, women and children and in 1985 he won first prize again at the Powell River Exhibition with a pencil portrait of a Powell River resident.

I asked him why he had chosen to come to Kelowna, and he looked at me in amazement and told me that he had driven through B.C. and Alberta before deciding that Kelowna was the prettiest city with the friendliest people. "Isn't it?" he asked, and of course I had to agree.

What young Graham is hoping is that some of you will take a look at the pencil portrait now being displayed in the window of Long's city centre, and order a portrait of that much-maligned teenager, mother, father or child, as a Christmas gift. As the young man wants to become known here his price is very low, and what could be a lovelier gift than a portrait of someone you love that will never age?

Do not misunderstand me, I am not saying that Graham Harrop is already a good artist. I have seen only the one sample of his work—but I do firmly believe that a young man who cares enough about becoming an artist to work hard for his training, and was willing to go without the usual teenage luxuries because he believes in his creative urge, deserves encouragement and a helping hand at least. Incidentally I showed the pencil portrait to one bright young reporter, and his comment was "Stop worrying about that lad—He has got it."

TV, Radio Producer Dies In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lawrence Berns, 75, television producer and studio executive, died Thursday of leukemia. Berns was production executive for the McHale's Navy and Broadside television series and formerly wrote and produced the Our Miss Brooks radio and television series for CBS.

PLANNED OWN SHOW

The story - line of Russian Roulette, an upcoming Bob Hope show on television, was first suggested by Hope himself.

TAKE Five

By BETTY TOOLE

The past week, Kelowna was the centre for a large bowling tournament with approximately 104 entrants from all of B.C.

This was more or less part of the social activity during the annual Buddhist league convention. The winners were: Ladies' Hi single—Miss Mich Yamada (Kamloops) 236; Ladies' Hi three—Miss Kathy Yamada (Kelowna) 683; Men's Hi single—Tom Tahara (Kamloops) 281; Men's Hi three—Mas Torada (Kelowna) 638.

The scores were not exceptionally high but the enthusiasm and enjoyment shown by all participants made it a success. One third of the convention members entered the tournament, this certainly indicates just how popular bowling is as a sport and also as a means of entertainment.

SENIORES

Dwelling on the popularity of bowling, did you know we have a very active Senior Citizens league in town, and I understand they really enjoy themselves too.

Mr. Chapman, a senior citizen, recently had nine strikes in a row, he now can be proud of a 344 game. There are also community leagues such as the North and South Glenmore leagues which boasts of a 34 team membership. This league, I might add, is very well organized, they are a tremendous group of people.

There is also enthusiastic lodge leagues such as the Canadian Order of Foresters.

So if you have time on your hands and a want for entertainment and relaxation, get in the swim and join this ever growing sport of bowling.

For those interested, young and old, the district five pin association is holding its third week of free bowling instructions this Saturday at 2:00 p.m. These clinics are held in cooperation with the bowling proprietors. This will be the final clinic for November.

WESTERN CANADA TRIALS

The time has come for all competitive minded bowlers to enter the Western Canada Trials. The 5-Pin Association is extending a special invitation to all bowlers to come out and compete. Don't be late and miss this date to win a spot on Kelowna and District's Dream team for 1965-66. The time: 1:00 p.m. sharp on Sunday, November 14. The place: Bowldrome for the ladies, and Valley Lanes for the men.

For those who are interested and wish to see some fine bowling, come out and cheer your favorite on.

Here's a note of interest up Vernon way: Shig Tabata rolled a 416 with a three-game total of 946. That's knocking on the door of that elusive 1,000 mark. Cool, man, cool.

The Big Five for this week: Ladies—Doris Whittle 226, Marj Lischka 222, Mich Tahara 216, Jill Siebert 214, Donna Dunne 212. Men: Lou Matsuda 282, Bille Koga 249, Larry Wright 240, Tony Senger 235, Morio Koga 235.

A Final Note:

Keep Nov. 20 open and attend the 5-Pin Assoc. dance to help sponsor our Dream team.

Fans Love Marlene And Break Her Ribs

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (AP) — Marlene Dietrich, with two of her ribs broken by enthusiastic fans, performed as usual at the Royal Theatre. The glamorous grandmother said her chest felt sore after the hugging outside the theatre Monday night. X-rays Wednesday showed the rib fractures.

Sexy Film Sent Out Into Cold As Rome Takes On Victoria Look

ROME (AP) — After months of controversy, parliament has slammed the subsidy door on that persistent creature of Italy's film industry, the sexy movie.

The episode was reminiscent of an old-time morality picture: Pope Parliament, outraged at the dolours of the wayward child, Sexy Film, orders her out into the cold, never to receive any financial support from the state.

But Sexy Film is not helioles. In fact, in the opinion of industry insiders, Sexy Film with her stripteases and audie scenes is consistently the most reliable money-maker in the industry.

But other pictures are having their troubles and Premier Aldo Meri's government recently won final parliamentary approval of a program of subsidies and special benefits to help them out.

The new law provides a subsidy of $64,000 a year for each of 20 feature-length pictures judged by a mixed commission of government officials and film industry representatives as films of particular merit.

Other state funds will go to documentary films, with subsidies ranging from $8,000 to $16,000.

In addition, there will be special tax cuts on the box office take for movie houses that book more Italian films in preference to foreign pictures.

There is good reason for the government to shell out these subsidies. Films are a big money-maker both at home and abroad. Last year, for example, Italian pictures earned $40,000,000 in foreign currency and grossed $24,000,000 at home. Government taxes on domestic ticket sales totalled $20,000,000.

During the financial uncertainty of Italy's new inflation within the last two years, money to finance pictures had become increasingly hard to come by.

The news is out at last! In a small account in The Daily Courier last week, we read about the decision on the location for our centennial museum. This is news that all the museum directors have been eager to hear, and it's good news indeed.

The Museum Projects committee, under chairman Charles Gaddess, has made the very wise decision that the centennial museum shall be built on the civic centre, facing Queensway.

The location will be between the regional library and the park area near the health unit. Mr. Gaddess said the new building will not encroach on the small park area, which adds so much beauty to the civic centre.

HARD DECISION
All those who have spent many, many hours on research into modern museum design and function know that the Projects committee's decision was not an easy one. At first, it seemed a foregone conclusion that the centennial museum would be located on the lakeshore, somewhere near the present log building; perhaps even on its exact location.

But serious doubts were raised about the wisdom of locating a modern, efficient museum on an area that is very limited. At the annual meeting of the Museum Association, held early in 1983, our regional planner cautioned the members of the association there was a danger of over-building our all too limited lakeshore.

We were asked to consider the total effect of a new building that could easily destroy the free view of the lake that is one of Kelowna's special attractions.

U.S. DEMON
Then many of the directors began to delve into recommendations of the American Association of Museums. We were able to read an authoritative book on museum design, borrowed from the American Association by A. G. Barnes, who was later appointed an architect for the central museum.

A most important consideration in planning for a useful museum is that of future growth and expansion, as the community grows. Where could a building expand on the small lakeshore area? A second story would cut off even more of the view.

We had long conversations on museum location with A. F. Key, field director of the Canadian Association of Museums, and with Dr. G. C. Carl, director of the provincial museum in Victoria.

Both Mr. Key and Dr. Carl, leading experts in the museum field, visited Kelowna last spring, and examined possible locations for a new building.

FINAL SWING
But the final swing to a new site near the Library came when the chairman and vice-chairman of the Museum Association, H. S. Robinson and C. W. Knowles, attended the seminar of the B.C. Association of Museums, held in Kamloops in September.

Both officers of the association were tremendously impressed by the efficiency of the new Kamloops museum, which is an integral part of the complex that includes the public library.

We feel the Museum Projects committee and city council are to be commended for their final decision on the location of the new centennial building. And no small thanks go to all the museum directors who gave their time and thought to the recommendations that lead to a wise decision.

Public Fed Up On Lurid Films

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is the film industry ready to abandon its self-censoring production code?

The answer is no—despite a flurry of news stories last week that Hollywood was preparing to scruple the code in favor of individual review of each film on its merits of taste and morality.

But the movie companies are definitely headed in the direction of a smaller, less stringent code which could be administered with greater elasticity.

The matter of morality on the screen has been a touchy one since the earliest days of films. A prolonged smooch in The Kiss (1928) outraged the moralists. Protests have continued to the present day (Kiss me Stupid, What's New Pussycat) and are likely to go on as long as there are movies.

But moral attitudes have changed since 1933, when the major portions of the production code were adopted.

BANK REMAIN

Although the code has been altered—the most recent change was in 1968—the basic provisions are the same: No profanity, no nudity, no glorification of crime, sin, adultery and so on.

Anyone who has seen recent films knows that the code now is loosely enforced.

For a year and a half, the major companies that comprise the Motion Picture Association of America have discussed updating the code to meet today's standards.

"There is absolutely no truth to the reports that we are planning to abandon the code," said a spokesman. "The discussions, which may continue for some time, concern the possibility of cutting down the code to more general statements. That would permit the administrator to judge each film on its merits, without making specific restrictions."

The 1968 changes were prompted to a large degree by a pair of Otto Preminger films that were denied code seals: The Moon is Blue, which featured forbidden words like "virgin" and "seduced," and The Man with the Golden Arm, which depicted drug injection.

MAY BE CAUSE

The cause celebre of forthcoming code revisions may well be The Pawnbroker. The Rod Steiger film featured brief shots of nudity, which is specifically banned by the code. But the code administration made an exception and handed a seal to The Pawnbroker because of its artistic merit.

Will this mean a flood of salacious movies?

Probably not. Although some racy films can make a quick dollar, the biggest moneymakers (My Fair Lady, Mary Poppins, The Sound of Music) are those the entire family can enjoy. And there is evidence from the failure of Kiss me, Stupid and other films that the public is getting fed up with tasteless, lurid movies.

SECRETS EXPOSED

LUTON, England (CP) — A senior customs official lectured to the local Rotary Club on the five best ways of smuggling dutiable goods through the customs. However David Sinclair, chief officer at an airport, advised his hearers not to try the tricks because his staff knows them all.

At The Library

When the definitive social history of mid-twentieth century western culture is evaluated, ranking alongside the essential giants of the age — Shakespeare, Churchill, Disney — will be James Bond.

In "The James Bond Dossier," published by Cape, Kingsley Amis presents a survey of the thirteen Bond books by the late Ian Fleming. Mr. Amis started his book as a recreational exercise and it would be carping to criticize the lack of original observation it contains. It is, in fact, little more than a catalogue of Bondiana. Despite the hemmed listings, the author oddly fails to note certain pointers to our hero's character. Surely for 007 to work on the side for an hotelier who will not allow Jewish guests in his establishment (see "Goldfinger") is an example of indirect anti-semitism which Mr. Amis claims is not evident in the books.

The book is patronising and Kingsley Amis is only too happy to show that, despite his academic background, he is still just one of the boys. Sociological terms are fine in the context of a novel but here they seem out of place and can only be a means of "popularising" the book. This is superfluous since any book with the name "James Bond" on the cover will sell, whatever the style or the content and despite any adverse reviews it receives.

Tipped as the future successor to the late Ian Fleming it looks as though Mr. Amis is already on the Bondwagon anyway.

"Hero of Two Roads to Guadalupe" by R. L. Taylor (Doubleday) is 14-year-old Sam Shelby who runs away to become a man in the U.S. Army of 1948. It is the time of the Mexican Campaign and Shelby is joined by his half-brother Blaine who becomes historian to Colonel Doniphan's Missouri Volunteers.

The battling heroes swash-buckle their way through Mexico attended by a train of camp followers, while Blaine is pursued by an unlikely (but inevitable) beautiful girl disguised as a soldier.

A broad variety of entertaining characters people this well drawn picture of high adventure by the author of "The Travels of Jamie McPheeters."

Films Start Fashion Trend

PARIS (Reuters) — Numerous recent Paris fashion trends have ridden to fame on waves of publicity evoked by successful movies.

Period and contemporary costumes from such pictures as Viva Maria, My Fair Lady, Harlow and The Knack are influencing everything, from sportswear to formal clothes and accessories.

Pierre Cardin spent three months on location in Mexico last year designing the costumes for Viva Maria. Subsequently, the "granny look" with long full skirts and ruffled turn-of-the-century shirtwaists emerged as a dominant trend in casual clothes worn on the French Riviera.

Marc Bohan of Dior combined the Middle Eastern - inspired themes of his last two collections in many of the clothes he created for Sophia Loren to wear in her film Arabesque.

Cecil Beaton's costumes for My Fair Lady are directly responsible for the current epidemic of ostrich feathers and the lavishly jewelled and beaded evening sheaths.

The collections shown last July promptly produced numerous counterparts of My Fair Lady's Eliza Doolittle complete with egret feathers and wide choker collars made of pearls.

Jean Harlow and the slinky bias-cut fashions of the 1930s have had a major impact on fashions.

The supple bias - cut crepe dresses, chunky heeled shoes, and shoulder - length platinum blonde wigs vividly recall the famous laundress school of glamour.

Jacques Esterel shows all the formal clothes in his collection, with the models wearing Harlow wigs.

The British film The Knack, which received first prize at the Cannes Film Festival last spring, has exerted more influence on junior and teen - age fashions than any other picture on record. Paris streets are crowded with hundreds of "stand-ins" for the talented young comedian, Rita Tushingham.

Now - officially recognized as the Stanley Civic Symphony Orchestra, the group's first concert is to be held this December.

MOVIE highlights

The Paramount theatre will show a James Bond thriller "Goldfinger" Monday through Saturday, Nov. 15-20 inclusive, at 7 and 9:05 p.m.

Saturday, Nov. 20, a Gene Autry picture "Silver Canyon" will be seen at the 2 p.m. matinee.

"Goldfinger" is another in a series of films on the adventures of agent 007. Starred is Sean Connery as James Bond, and co-starred are Honor Blackman as Pussy Galore and Gert Fröbe as Goldfinger.

Connery's introduction to entertainment came about by chance. A friend who was in the cast of "South Pacific" suggested he try out for the chorus and more to his own surprise than his friend's, he got the role. He spent the next 18 hours learning how to dance, and when he went on stage, he managed to move through the steps.

CBC's first Emmy winner, the French network's Barber of Seville, will be shown on English network TV Nov. 3.

SWITCHED A LONG WAY

The only non-comic role of Lori Saunders, Bobbi Jo on TV's Petticoat Junction, was in a horror movie.

By the time he had left the show, 18 months later, Connery was convinced he wanted to be an actor.

REPERTORY

Joining a repertory company he performed in a different dramatic role every week and ultimately appeared in his first film, "No Road Back." He later attracted much critical acclaim with his co-starring performance opposite Claire Bloom in BBC's television adaptation of "Anna Karenina."

Then came his James Bond roles and a long-term contract which calls for him to make a James Bond movie every year. His contract also gives him the opportunity to make at least one other major film, so he will not become type-cast, and he has recently starred opposite Tina Turner in "Woman of Straw," and in Alfred Hitchcock's new thriller, "Marnie."

Goldfinger is a millionaire obsessed by gold and determined to rob Fort Knox. In the process, he kills a girl who befriends Bond, by brushing gold paint on her body, thus raising the alarm and suffocating her. Then he attempts to end Bond's life with a laser beam: a ray of light that can cut through steel!

Busy Playwright Dies At Age Of 65

NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Kaye Davis, 65, a busy playwright during the first half of this century, died Monday, apparently of a heart attack. Davis wrote 60 plays, 12 of which were shown on Broadway.

TV STAR FLED WAR
Adrienne Clarkson, now hostess of CBC-TV's Take 30, was born in Hong Kong and came to Canada at the age of two when Japan captured the colony.

STAR COMES BACK
Ramon Novarro, the original Ben Hur of silent movies, made a return trip to Hollywood to film one edition of Bonanza.

NIMBLE Fingers

by Frances Hatfield

The National Gallery of Canada is organizing a large exhibition of all handicrafts, to be shown in Ottawa in 1966 and to travel across Canada for two years thereafter.

The interest of the National Gallery in such a comprehensive craft exhibition marks a milestone in the progress of handicrafts in Canada.

Miss Nora McCullough travelled through the Okanagan last week visiting a number of us to pre-select work. After shipment to Ottawa the work will undergo a further jurying before the final selection is put on display.

In regard to juries the new president of the B.C. Potters' Guild, Eric Marsden, writes, "Much has been written about the problems of juries. Perhaps it is timely now to say something about the potters' reaction to juries."

"There can be little doubt that when shows are held, someone has to judge the standard to be maintained, and the jury is the most effective and democratic system yet devised."

"So we must assume that, no matter which pots are rejected, they are so rejected purely in the interests of maintaining the standards decided upon by the jury."

PERSONAL SHOCK

Of course, it is inevitable that one experiences a personal shock when pots of which one is very fond are, apparently rejected out of hand, and it is very difficult to take an impersonal and dispassionate attitude at that time, especially, as sometimes happens, when all one's entries are rejected.

But if we are serious about our efforts there is only one attitude to take, and that is—"what can I learn from rejection?" The jury is not motivated by personal animosity, and has had very definite reasons for rejection. All juries are seriously trying to do their job conscientiously and are often very painstaking in their examination of entries.

COMPARE

It is up to us, therefore, to view our rejected entries impartially, and compare them with accepted work, to try to see where we have fallen down. Ideally, it would be helpful if juries would issue a statement, outlining reasons for rejections and acceptances, but this also presents some problems.

For our own good, however, the more shows we can arrange with strict juries, the better for our quality of work, and it is my hope that arrangements for such shows can at least be started during my term.

With such shows in mind, may I mention that the curator of the Vancouver Art Gallery has indicated an interest in the idea of sponsoring a "Western Canadian Craft Show" which would probably include ceramics, weaving, stitchery, batik, jewellery, ceramic sculpture and possible architectural pieces.

MAY SHOW

This would be well juried, would be a biennial and the tentative date for the show is May, 1966. Craftsmen, start planning now.

Any person wishing to become a member of the B.C. Potters' Guild can contact "nimble fingers" about the benefits and interests of such membership. She is the Okanagan representative on the Guild.

Shenadoah Just Made It

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The man called Shenadoah almost didn't make it to the television channels this season.

It was touch and go whether Robert Horton, five-year veteran of Wagon Train and more recently star of Broadway and night clubs, would be able to fulfill his commitment to the series. Make it he did, and ABC is glad. Shenadoah is one of the few solid hits among the season's new shows.

At least the Monday night show seems to be a hit in the audience ratings despite cool responses by the TV critics.

"I'd estimate the reviews were 60 per cent against the show," Horton said without vindictiveness. "Of the other 40 per cent, most were not completely favorable, but found things to like in it, particularly my own performance."

The plot device—an amnesiac in search of his identity—was scorned by the critics, but Horton finds it workable and dramatic.

His only doubts were whether he would be physically able to continue on the show.

SOMETHING SNAPPED

He was shopping with his wife a few months ago and picked up a bag of groceries. Something snapped, causing intense pain in his back.

Doctors diagnosed his problem as a severe strain and warned that undue exertion might bring serious results.

They figured the injury was due to some earlier accident.

For weeks, any movement brought a stab of pain to the actor. Meanwhile the start of the 1965-66 television season was approaching, and Shenadoah had only eight finished segments.

The prospect of Horton performing in a half-hour action drama seemed impossible. But he agreed to try.

"It was all worked out with great ingenuity," he said. "Never have I done so many closeups and over-the-shoulder shots. Never have so many stunt men and doubles been used for me."

His recovery is progressing to the point that he can now drive a car. Ride a horse? Forget it. He'll be on his own two feet until next season, at least.

Burtons To Play On Oxford Stage

OXFORD, England (AP)—Oxford University Dramatic Society announced Sunday it will sponsor Elizabeth Taylor's stage debut. The movie actress will appear without salary for a week starting Feb. 7 in a university production of Christopher Marlowe's 16th-century tragedy Doctor Faustus with her husband, Richard Burton.

CROSSROADS SUPPLIES LTD.

Reds Corner — 1 1/2 miles North of Kelowna

The history of art is like a stream which through the centuries has widened until now it is an ocean.

It used to be a road down which orderly evolution travelled, now it is a connecting freeways where the artist can freely explore in a hundred directions at once.

During the time when the church was the patron of the arts (and art was a story telling medium) the audience was small. There were no art museums, no reproductions of paintings. The public accepted paintings as illustrations of stories of the Bible or as pictorial representations of life around them.

ROMANTIC

These romantic and stylized paintings glorified and glamorized the subject. They were to depict things not as they actually were but as the artist visualized them.

Even the titles had a romantic ring.

"Justice and Divine Vengeance Pursuing Crime" or "Psyche Receiving the First Kiss from Cupid" painted around 1800. And "Woman Scratching" painted by Degas in 1883.

So no one questioned either painting or title. No one was offended, no one got upset.

But occasionally some artist or group of artists would rebel at the old cliches, react to inertia and try something new.

To choose an isolated example, Marcel Duchamp's painting "Nude Descending a Staircase" painted in 1912, created quite an uproar, being described as "an explosion in a shingle factory."

RESEMBLANCE

But it is interesting to note this painting bears a strong resemblance in composition to "The Golden Stairs" by the classical English painter Burne-Jones, painted 30 years earlier.

Where people would accept the idea of a number of elegant young ladies descending a staircase in a series of graceful attitudes, a cubistic painting of a fractured nude rattling down the stairs infuriated everyone, critics and public alike.

And yet half a century later "Nude Descending" although it still irritates some, has come to be regarded as an enduring "tour de force" of its time and may some day be considered a masterpiece.

So the innovators and rebels further the development of art.

It is important to remember, however, that not all that is new is good. I'm sure that during Rembrandt's time there must have been artists whose work had no merit then and no artistic value now.

And it must be true today; not all that is being done is necessarily good. Who knows what will stand the test of time?

BEGINNING

If you ask "where does modern art begin" there is no answer. It begins nowhere because it begins everywhere. It is fed by thousands of artists all going in different directions. It finds its inspiration in the cave paintings of thirty thousand years ago or last week's spectacular exhibition.

Tradition in art used to mean a steady sequence of change within boundaries.

Today the boundaries are vague, if they exist at all.

Today, it's every man for himself.

INDIAN FROM EUROPE

Michael Zenon, Joe Two Rivers on TV's The Forest Rangers, was born in the Ukraine and came to Canada in 1948.

Two extra CJOV-FM program hours were recently added to the weekly schedule.

Tuesday night from 11 p.m. to 12 p.m. a program, "Music Till Midnight" offer an alternative to the excellent CBC "Tuesday Night" feature which CKOV-FM schedules from 10:30 p.m. to midnight. The feature is "Part Two" of the CBC vehicle. But, excellent or not, not everyone, we realize, can enter into the spirit of the weekly cultural fare offered. For those who can't, CJOV-FM now offers a haven with their alternative fare.

The extra hour from 11 p.m. to midnight provides regular CJOV-FM fans with something extra on Tuesday night. To the AM fans, the way is open to experience a difference in FM light fare for that hour.

cently comes on Sunday afternoon. FM used to return to their separate program pattern from AM at 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Now, as counterpoint to National Hockey on Radio CBC, CJOV-FM starts separate programming at 3:30 p.m. Sundays.

Again an alternative.

Speaking of hockey, we are reminded to mention another great sport. Football's final spasms between Calgary and Winnipeg take place this Saturday at Calgary. The game, one of the vital finals before Grey Cup count-down, will help bring to a head which team will represent the west. CJOV-FM will join its private network of radio stations starting at 1 p.m. Saturday to broadcast the entire match.

"Strings and Things" this Sunday evening from 8 p.m. until 10 p.m. offers the great late John Barrymore in what is probably none of the finest recorded readings of Shakespeare ever achieved. We refer more to the actors ability to do this rather than the recordings.

This program can be nicely appreciated because of its usual luring of music inserts, which can be best qualified to bear out the "Strings" aspect of the title: the variety of "things" offered in addition bear out the balance of the title: thusly "Strings and Things." Of well, "a rose by any other name . . ." etc.; Also featured is the comedy revue cast of "Beyond The Fringe." A funny "thing."

SUMOR

Moving ahead to mention another CJOV-FM highlight feature, we suggest you be sure to catch the fast paced humor of the one and only Mort Sahl.

This Tuesday's "Comedy Star Time" will be the show box for his talents and relentless verbiage with a bite. The show runs for one hour from 10 to 11 p.m. Tuesday. Mort Sahl was one of our earlier offerings on "Comedy Star Time." But this show, which is a new album again, could very well be dubbed by us as "More Of Mort Sahl," but it's actually called "A Way Of Life" with Mort Sahl.

Wednesday night from 9 until 10, CJOV-FM fulfills its promise of scheduling occasional operetta or opera for those fans who appreciate it. Normally the slot for "Symphony Hall," this week at 9 to 10 Wednesday will be taken over by a special show.

The all time favorite "Kismet" will be performed in high-light style starring Gordon MacRae and Dorothy Kirsten. This show is an operetta.

KISMET

Those who know don't need telling to be tuned. But for those who may wonder if it's got anything to offer as entertainment, we can assure you it's downright good vocal-musical entertainment with songs you'll discover are not so obscure. "Kismet" like any of the all time favorite operettas, features songs and tunes that have become all time greats.

FM Theatre on Thursday, Nov. 18, is worth making a note of. The rather controversial husband actor of Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, who stands out as a great Shakespearean authority as a performer of the bard's theatre, are, will be heard in "Hamlet."

How A Badman Becomes Hero

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How do you make a television hero out of a real-life criminal?

ABC and 20th Century-Fox have fashioned a half-hour television western series on the life and bad times of Jesse James. Although the real nature of Jesse has been dimmed by a parade of movies romanticizing his deeds, the plain fact is that he heisted many a bank and train in a highly unlawful manner.

Yet every Monday night The Legend of Jesse James shows Jesse and Frank as misguided Missouri boys who are out to do good by robbing banks. The formula seems to work, since the series has been lodging in the lower reaches of the top 60 shows in audience ratings, and anything in the upper 60 is considered safe.

Jesse is played by Christopher Jones, a 24-year-old graduate of an orphanage, the U.S. Army and the New York stage. He is a strong-minded chap of the actor's studio school—he married the head man's daughter, Susan Strasberg—and he has his own ideas about how the role should be played.

"There are enough incidents in the real history of Jesse James to supply stories for two or three years," he pointed out. "Why don't they use that material instead of trying to make him a Robin Hood all the time?"

The actor admitted that Jesse probably will go on Robin-Hood-winking the home viewers.

KELOWNA ARTIST'S PAINTING ON CHRISTMAS CARD

Stating in British Columbia, a painting by Jack Hambleton of Kelowna, has been selected by Pemberton Securities to be placed on one of their Christmas cards. Mr. Hambleton's painting was the only one selected from B.C. Ian

Danvers, Kelowna, representing Pemberton Securities, said, "It is our policy to select a painting from one B.C. artist every year. We have done so for the last three years. The painting is printed on one of our cards and distributed to our offices throughout the world. The original is then brought to Vancouver where it is hung in our main office." Mr. Hambleton is the second artist to be selected from the Okanagan. Last year Peter Ewart's painting, Kalamalka Lake was selected. —(Courier Photo)

SURVEY SAYS "YEAH" TO TOP FOUR

Beatles Best at Headlines

LONDON (AP) — The best known headline figures in Britain are the Beatles. Ninety-six per cent of the persons questioned by Mass Observations Ltd., a market-research organization, correctly identified the mophaired quartet: John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr.

The organization said it questioned 2,000 persons and asked them to identify a list of persons who are, or have been, in the news recently.

The pollsters said the Beatles were correctly identified by a higher percentage of the population than any other figures studied by Mass Observations within the last 10 years.

The researchers said only 68 per cent of the people could identify Donald Biggs, one of the convicted Great Train robbers. He recently broke out of prison in a daring escape. One answerer said Biggs was the leader of Britain's liberal party.

Eighty-two per cent of those questioned knew the identity of Christine Keeler, central figure in Britain's sex and political scandal of 1964.

Next to the Beatles, the best known of the personalities listed by the pollsters was British comedian Tony Hancock, for 91 per cent knew who he was.

Reginald Maudling, a former cabinet member and one of the leading personalities of the Conservative party, was identified by 78 per cent, but others thought he was a band leader, a television announcer and a trade union leader.

Life Of Star Large Bed Of Roses Well, It's Not Quite What You Think

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You think the life of a star is one large bed of roses? Then you should read some of the memoirs written by the acting folk. Almost any of them could be subtitled "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

Mickey Rooney, with no visible ghost writer on the jacket, has penned his life story with the curious title of I.E., An Autobiography (Putnam, $1.95). He describes his story at the outset:

"It's the paradox of a child who was a man and a man who was, or tried to remain, a child. At the age of 15 months I was working in burlesque and by the time I was two, I was adding scenes. But at 30 I was still shockingly immature, a con man's delight, a con woman's lot of gold."

Author Rooney is hard on few people in the book. Mostly, he places the blame on his own small shoulders for the parade of disasters that have befallen him. Reading about them, you wonder that he has retained his ebullience.

"Yes, I Can" (Farrar, Straus and Giroux, $6.95), written by Sammy Davis Jr. with Jane and Burg Boyar, makes Mickey's problems seem like small potatoes. Sammy's travails were not merely interior; they also resulted from the fact that he is a Negro.

In the Davis saga, everything is related with a keen eye for drama and scope. And it is told in staccato style, but that is the way Davis lives, works and tells his story.

He spares no one and is particularly harsh on his family and himself. It may be over-written and overwrought. But it's more than a show business memoir; it's a social document. You might not think that a jolly chap like Allan Sherman would have any problems. Think again. And read his autobiography A Gift of Laughter (Atheneum, $5.95).

Sherman marches through stages of starvation and over-eating as he suffers in the harsh world of television variety and quiz shows. The worst came when he was fired as producer of the Steve Allen Show. "I had reached the bottom of the bottom of the bottom," he writes. "Reality stinks. It never was any good, I thought, and nobody cares. Nobody gives a damn if you live or die, and every time I touch something tangible, somebody takes it away from me."

Soon afterward, though he hit with My Son, the Folk Singer and suddenly everybody loved him.

This week, the chef will serve up something of a potpourri (sounds better than stew, somehow) with a pinch of this, a dollop of that and a good stir to blend the flavors. The flavoring will be mostly badminton with a couple of drops of tennis, the international variety.

There was some doubt last week as to whether the Pettigrew Cup mixed doubles competition would take place on November 7. The badminton clinic scheduled for Sunday afternoon in Salmon Arm was expected to curtail the number of entries.

However, 16 entrants from Kelowna and Vernon signified their intention to play so the tournament went ahead as planned. The Pettigrew Cup competition is traditionally a round robin handicap affair. Each team plays every other team and the pair winning the most games wins the trophy. Sometimes a play-off game is necessary when a large entry forces the players to compete in two sections. Winning finalists from each section then play to decide the victors.

HANDICAPS

Handicaps play a part in deciding the competitor's chances although two good players with a heavy handicap could probably outplay two average players who begin several points ahead.

An example of an especially severe handicap would be minus eight, one hand which means that in any 15-point game this pair must make a total of 23 points with only one partner allowed to serve.

A weaker team could start with a plus 10 handicap in which the partners would only have to make five points in order to win.

Some players refuse to participate in a handicap tournament finding them too frustrating and much preferring the open tournaments where their skills — and weaknesses — have full scope. Other badminton buffs, however, enjoy the gathering-of-the-clan aspect of any tourney and take part regardless of the type.

Handicap tournaments are especially worthwhile as encouragement to the beginning player. Whatever the handicap, the odds favor the veteran but the novice can do surprisingly well aided and abetted by a generous handicap. In addition, they also gain valuable tournament experience.

TROPHY

New owners of the Pettigrew trophy are Louise and Bob Brooks. Despite their handicap of minus seven they failed to lose a game. Runners-up were Russ Martin, a steady performer in tournaments, and partner Vivian Dore. Russ added to his handicap in the latter part of the affair by developing a "charley-horse" in one leg which slowed him down considerably.

The defending champions, Bruce Stevens and Gillian Paynter, were close behind but were unable to overcome the disadvantage of their minus eight handicap.

The 16 Pettigrew Cup aspirants should find themselves in fine form for the first open tourney of the season, the Kamloops-

Mainline Tournament slated to be held on November 20 and 21. Events will include men's and women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles.

Last year the Dalins-Bill, Chris and wife Yvonne—"had gone about as far as they could go" in the trophy-copping department. All three are keen competitors with a lot "on the bird" as anyone who has played against them can testify. This year I hope we will see rivalry that is close as well as keen and that there will be some new faces beaming from behind the chin trophies.

TENNIS

In the times that do not have to concern themselves with Old Man Winter, tennis is still part of the sports scene. Davis Cup protagonists were finally decided when Spain's Manuel Santana defeated Ramanathan Krishnan of India to send Spain into the Challenge Round against Australia.

This is the first time in the history of Davis Cup matches that Spain has reached the Challenge Round. Santana is given much of the credit for the success of the Spanish team which earlier in the year had defeated the American team in the inter-zone semi-finals. Santana and his teammates will play the Australian defending champions in Australia in December.

We have all met people who say they would just love to participate in this or that but who feel inadequately prepared. In regard to badminton, these are the people who say that they would love to play but they haven't touched a racket for years or have only played outdoors or they haven't played at all.

This brings to mind the story of the little girl who, when informed by her mother that she would start school next month, replied in horrified tones, "Mommy, I can't! I don't know how to read!"

This is another way of saying that if you feel you would enjoy the recreation and exercise to be found at the badminton hall, just come along. You can avail yourself of free coaching or if you are of a pensive bent, you can learn by doing.

Either way it is fun, fun, fun so why not (I can't resist it) come, come, come!
